CABARET AT SOUTH CHURCH

Music, Dancing and Readings With Cooling Refreshments Served in Dainty Setting Provide Evening's Entertainment.

Lively music by the Phillips academy jazz band, together with a program of vocal music, dancing and readings enjoyed while the patrons of the cabaret sipped cooling drinks or ate ice cream was the appropriate diversion for a warm June evening provided by the Social committee at the South church vestry on Tuesday evening.

Pink tissue draperies at the windows, pink covers on the tables, and a profusion of iris in shades of blue gave the vestries a fresh, cool appearance. The pleasing effect was due to the efforts of Mrs. H. A. S. Read who has often exercised her ingenuity in providing novel decorations for the South church vestries.

Miss Evelyn Ford and Miss Albrecht whose voices are enjoyed by South church audiences at the regular weekly services were no less pleasing when heard in popular airs.

Jewett Flagg, although new as an entertainer in Andover immediately made himself popular with his "little bit of Scotch." Appearing in full Highland costume, he gave a delightful version of "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" and his audience regretted that his encore was only a jest, though well turned.

The little dancers who shone at the Guild exhibition did their turns once more before appreciative spectators. Selections from "The School for Scandal" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" were read by Miss Emily Holt and Miss Nathalie Page.

Music by the Phillips academy orchestra filled in every interval in the program making it a continuous performance.

Refreshments consisting of a variety of sandwiches, ice cream, strawberries, cake, lemonade, and ginger ale were served by the waitresses who were dressed in white with pink bows which matched the general scheme of decorations.

The waitresses who were in charge of Miss Gertrude White were Susan Ripley, Emma Daniels, Polly Francis, Carolyn Dodge, Charlotte White, Doris Gates, Viola Gates, Agnes Cromie, Eleanor Keith, Frances Hall, Jeanette Meehan, Edith Johnson, Lucy Sanborn and May Elander.

Officer Carmichael Suffers Sprained Knee

While pursuing a truck down Central street last evening about eight o'clock, motorcycle officer Carmichael sustained a slight accident resulting in a badly wrenched knee and ankle. As he turned the corner into School street, the rear wheel of the cycle skidded in the tar of the roadway throwing its rider to the ground.

A passerby helped to right the motorcycle and the officer succeeded in overhauling the truck after which he visited the office of Dr. Abbott. He is on duty today.

STOWE SCHOOL FIELD DAY

Boys and Girls of Junior High School Compete in Track Events. Baseball Team Defeated by Lawrence Y. M. C. A. Boys

A field day with sports and races was held by pupils of the Stowe School on the Playstead yesterday afternoon, beginning at four o'clock. In spite of the heat the events were run off as planned including a basketball game between the Stowe first and second teams, and a baseball game between the Stowe team and the working boys' team of the Lawrence Y.M.C.A.

The basketball game was won by the Stowe first team 21 to 12, and the baseball game was won by the visitors with a score of 14 to 7.

Frank Blunt carried off four blue ribbons being the winner in the ball throw, high jump, 220-yard dash, and broad jump. Murphy was a close second in both the ball throw and broad jump.

The girls as well as the boys took part in the various contests. Lucy Sanborn was the winner of the high jump as well as of the sack race.

Miss Clara A. Putnam, principal of the Stowe school, awarded ribbons this morning to the winners in the various events. Where two names are given there was a tie.

The winners:

Sack race—Boys: 1st, G. Little; 2d, P. Simeone. Girls: 1st, Lucy Sanborn; 2d, Evelyn Miller.

Ball throw—Boys: 1st, Frank Blunt; 2d, Livingston, Murphy. Girls: 1st, Ruth Watson; 2d, Grace Chapman.

100-yd. dash—Boys: 1st, Stone; 2d, Hutcheson. Girls: 1st, Frances Metcalf; 2d, Mildred Howard.

High jump—Boys: 1st, Frank Blunt; 2d, Jackson Stone. Girls: 1st, Lucy Sanborn; 2d, May Fallon.

220-yd dash—1st, Frank Blunt; 2d, Howard, Gallant.

Broad jump—1st, Frank Blunt; 2d, Fallon, Murphy.

Three-legged race—1st, Helen Saunders and Edith Johnson; 2d, Christina Cairnie and Dorothy McCarthy.

The members of the committee in charge of the event were Miss Bernice Simpson and Mr. Draper of the faculty and Margaret Cutler, Marietta Battles, Harold Lawrence and Kenneth Livingston of the Student body.

Punchard Senior Play Tonight

The senior class of Punchard will give their play "Clarence" by Booth Tarkington, in the town hall tonight. The cast includes Misses Helen Otis, Mary Alley, Catherine Barrett, Margaret May, Dorothy Wanamaker and Henry Otis, Russell A. Carter, Douglas Bacon, Arthur Fallon and Windsor B. Wade.

The play has been coached by Nathan C. Hamblin, principal of the school.

There has been a large advance sale of tickets and a full house is assured.

A part of the proceeds will be given to the Athletic association, and a part will be used for the purchase of a class gift.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

Academies on the Hill Plan Busy Week of Graduation Activities. Memorial Tower to be Dedicated Friday.

Into the seven days beginning June 10 will be crowded all the events which are connected with the commencement season at Phillips and Abbot academies, the baccalaureate sermons for both classes being delivered on the coming Sunday, June 11.

The event which will especially mark this commencement season will be the laying of the corner stone for the tower to be built as a memorial to the men of Phillips academy who gave their lives in the World war. The exercises will take place at noon on next Friday, June 16, the dedicatory address being delivered by Major Marlborough Churchill, class of 1896. A copper box containing copies of current newspapers, books concerning the school, coins of 1922, photographs of undergraduates and faculty and various objects of historic interest to the school will be placed beneath the corner stone.

Abbot Academy

The school rally will be held on the steps of old Abbot hall tomorrow evening at quarter past seven when all the classes will assemble wearing their class colors and songs will be sung by the glee club and various classes. The Draper reading will take place in Davis hall at quarter past eight o'clock.

Unusual interest attaches to the fact that the baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. John Timothy Stone pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago Illinois, not only because he is known as a brilliant speaker, but because his father the Rev. Timothy Dwight Porter Stone was the fifth principal of Abbot academy holding that position from 1839 to 1842.

The alumnae luncheon and business meeting will be held on Monday at noon with the senior reception to invited guests at four o'clock in the afternoon. The musical will be given in Davis hall at 8 o'clock.

On Tuesday, the tree and ivy planting exercises will take place at half past ten after which the procession of trustees, faculty, and members of the school will be formed and proceed to the South church where the commencement address will be delivered by Dean Charles R. Brown of the Yale Divinity school and the diplomas will be awarded.

Three Prisoners in Africa Saved by Wireless!

Within the memory of most folks is the dramatic rescue of the passengers and crew of the steamer "President," sinking in the Caribbean Sea. Though back in 1909, it provided the first spectacular rescue by means of wireless telegraphy and quickly earned for the new invention the respect to which it was so justly entitled.

Since that time, countless thousands of lives have been saved through its agency and it now ranks as a recognized institution throughout the civilized world. But never in the history of the science, has there been a rescue effected, so amazing and thrilling as that which followed the reception of a message by a lone listener, buried deep in the silence of his experimental receiving cabin in a huge European wireless station.

Singing its plaintive note out of the hidden fastneses of Africa, winging its way through space with a rapidity just a little faster than the speed of light, it whispered a plea which had sprung from the hearts of three hapless voyagers, trapped in a hidden city and held as prisoners.

Just in what way that message was acted upon, and just how the rescue was effected, have been most excitingly picturized in the fourth and final feature of the colossal Paramount spectacle, "The Mistress of the World." This picturization is entitled "Saved By Wireless" and will be presented at the Colonial Theatre next Thursday with Mia May in the leading role.

Massachusetts Agricultural College

Amherst, June 2 — July 24-28 has been set aside for the fourth annual summer Farmer's Week at the Massachusetts Agricultural College. The program for the week is very nearly completed, with marketing occupying the leading place at many of the farmer's sessions and household management in an important position on the women's program. Junior Farmers Week will be held at the same time for the hundred odd boys and girls champions in the Junior Extension club work. The boys and girls who have led the farm and home projects will attend lectures each morning in departments of the college.

The program, so far as the farmers are concerned, is based upon commodity groups. The fruit growers' meetings run through Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday. The dairying and general farm program is held all day Wednesday and Thursday. The poultrymen's session runs from Wednesday noon through to Friday night. The market gardeners' sessions are confined to Thursday morning, and tobacco and onion growing together fill Friday afternoon.

The emphasis at the meetings will be given to the field work farm trips, and crop demonstrations rather than to lectures. Orchard trips and field crop trips with members of the college staff in charge will bring the visiting farmers very close to the farm practices of the college. The entire livestock population of the institution will be on exhibit Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Prof. S. M. Salisbury will discuss the points of each animal, after the "livestock parade." But the best available speakers have been selected to present timely subjects at the lecture periods. Most of the talking will be done by members of the college and extension staff who are working among the farmers of Massachusetts all the year round. But Dr. S. W. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, a leading horticulturist, is coming to discuss "Direct Marketing of Fruit" a very pressing problem in view of the bumper crops expected by orchardists this fall. Likewise in the onion growers meetings Director W. A. Munson of Massachusetts Bureau of Markets will lead a marketing discussion and in the dairy sessions W. H. Bronson of the New England Milk Producers Association will talk about the "Economic Trend of Dairying in New England." The marketing problem for the market garden meeting has been entrusted to A. E. Wilkinson ofi Connectcut.

Meetings run from 9:30 in the morning to 5 in the evening with the field trips for the most part in the late afternoon. A potato rotation for a dairy farm and a demonstration of methods of planting silage corn to show the difference between thin and thick seeding in the stand and yield are features of the field plots. The poultry convention is giving a very large proportion of attention to the problem of disease control. Prof. J. C. Graham will tell the story of the breeding experiments at the college which have produced a flock averaging 207 eggs a year from a flock that laid only 113 eggs a year for an average. The breeding experiment has been in process nine years.

Every evening the best of the United States Department of Agriculture's films illustrating modern farming processes will be shown. Some of the principal speakers are on the evening programs. Dr. Fletcher will tell how the Pennsylvania fruit growers are meeting their orchard problems on Tuesday evening, and Dean Leon S. Merrill of the University of Maine has been invited to give a prophecy of "Farming as a Business During the Next Decade" on Wednesday evening.

The Home Economics Division of the College is arranging lectures on household furnishings by a consulting specialist in interior decorating to be given both Monday and Tuesday. "A Symposium in Household Management" on Wednesday and Friday afternoon will be conducted by Farm Women in Massachusetts. The floriculture and vegetable gardening departments are arranging to give talks on the home vegetable garden to the women's sections. The pressure cooker in food preservation will be demonstrated by Prof. W. W. Chenoweth Thursday afternoon.

Unitarians to Hold Week's Institute on Andover Hill

The plans are fully completed for the Unitarian Ministers Institute which will be held at Phillips Academy, July 3 to 8 inclusive. Representatives of the denomination will be present from all over the country.

The buildings and grounds have been placed at the disposal of the visitors, including the chapel, administration building, dining hall, gymnasium and swimming pool and athletic fields.

The Institute is under the auspices of the Unitarian Laymen's league and is the third annual summer school the others having been held at Harvard and Chicago. The program provides for morning prayers followed by lectures and conference periods during the forenoon, covering theological, sociological and church administrative subjects. The afternoon will be given over chiefly to recreation but with a few discussion groups on missions, college centres and specialized topics.

Some of the subjects are: "The Agelong Quest for Truth"—1, About God; 2, About Salvation; 3, About Sin and Forgiveness; 4, About Life; 5, About a Hereafter; The Use of the Bible in Services of Public Worship; Religious Tendencies of Today; Religious Education; The Successful Administration of City, Suburban and Country Churches; International Morality; Unitarian Missions; Unitarian Development in the West; Divorce; Eugenics; College Centers; Twelve Specific Things Laymen Can Do for Their Ministers; and "The Cost of Our Freedom."

Some of the faculty of the Institute are:—

Florence Buck, D. D., Associate Secretary, Department of Religious Education, American Unitarian Association; Author; Contributor; Lecturer.

Samuel McChord Crothers, D. D. Litt, D., Minister, First Church, Cambridge; Author; Contributor, Lecturer.

Exeter Defeats Andover in Annual Track Meet

In a contest in which many good marks were set, although only one was broken, the Exeter track team downed the Andover representatives last Saturday on Plimpton field by the score of 69 3-4 to 56 1-4. What really won for the New Hampshire schoolboys was the double victories of Capt. Lundell, Watters and Driscoll, all Greater Boston boys, who amassed thirty points. The breaks also again went to Exeter although there was a minimum amount of these misfortunes, and this helped Andover take the count. The featuring performances of the afternoon were Watters' brilliant victories in the mile and the half-mile, Capt. Allen's gritty fight for second in the half mile, Wright's record breaking pole vault, and Wienecke's broad jump of 22 feet 4 1-2 in. Capt. Lundell's running in the 440-yard dash and the 220-yard dash also deserves credit. but was not so brilliant. In the weights Exeter's son of Titan, Driscoll, gave himself glory, winning the shot put and the discus.

The Exonians secured eight first places and a tie for one more, while Andover gained one tie and five firsts.

Exeter's lead in the first few events gave her the meet, and the end of the contest saw Andover gaining rapidly. After the mile run Exeter led 23-4, and once led by 25 points; the Andoverians gained in the field events more than Exeter and had the track events gone as expected the blue would have won.

The loss of Avery, Andover's hurdle-record holder, was felt from the start even more than anticipated, for in the first event his loss proved fatal. Cole, who was slated to win the 120-yard hurdles, was nervous with the responsibility and tripped on the second barrier while leading, leaving Lewis who ran the high hurdles for the first time in his life for the blue to finish. As it was, the little blue runner did well considering his size and experience in the event, tying for second place with Vilas of Exeter. Budd of Exeter took first with good form in the time of 16 1-5 seconds.

Exeter made a clean sweep in the century, scoring the first two places. Norton ran a pretty race with 10 1-5 seconds to his credit, with Taylor of Exeter and Hutchinson of Andover second and third.

Watters made a good job of the mile winning first place, and his teammate, Perkins, second. The latter had a bad foot and deserves great mention for his race. Turner of Andover ran a great quarter in an effort to draw out Watters but the Exonian kept his head, and won by a good margin. Chute of Andover unexpectedly took third.

A big surprise was sprung in the high jump, where Jones was expected to capture first easily. As it was two of his teammates and Booth of Andover tied with him at 5 ft. 7 in. Another bigger surprise was in the half mile. O'Neil of Exeter, doped to be the winner by a large margin, led for a lap and a half, with Watters, Kane and Capt. Allen, the last two of Andover, trailing in that order. About 200 yds. from the finish all four started sprinting, but Kane was soon left behind. With 50 yards to go, Watters and Allan flashed by O'Neil with a wonderful spurt, and fought it out for first; Watters finally winning in the fast time of 1 minute 58 1-5 seconds. Allen had a good 10 yards on O'Neil. The victory is especialy significant as O'Neil had not been defeated all year, and the fine fight of Watters and Allen deserves great praise, as each one had run a gruelling race before that event.

In the 220 yd. hurdles, Cole ran a fine race, barely missing the record, and Lewis took an easy second, with Vilas 15 yds. behind in the dash of the same length. Capt. Lundell won his second victory when he streaked to victory in front of Wood, who led Taylor by five yards. Lundell's first victory was in the feature event of the day, when he won over Capt. Allen in a gruelling race. Although Lundell had the pole Allen got the lead at the start and held it for half the distance. However, here Lundell passed him, and although on the last turn Allen seemed to be passing him, he kept the lead, winning by two yards.

Driscoll was the only double winner in the field events, gaining the shot and the discus. The latter event gave Exeter the meet when Driscoll's victory raised Exeter's total to 63 3-4. Dan Allen of Andover and Bradley got first and second in the javelin, and placed second and third in the opposite order in the discus. Wolfe won the hammer throw after some rivalry, and Wienecke made a good leap of 22 ft. 4 1-2 in. in the broad jump. Wright's work of 11 ft. 7 1-2 in. broke not only the dual record but also the Andover record, and is a wonderful work in itself. Cutler of Andover and Johnson of Exeter tied for second at 11 ft., after a close contest, doing the highest they ever went over.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Bayes M. Norton, Exeter; W. P. Taylor, Exeter, second; W. A. Hutchinson, Andover, third. Time 10 1-5s.

Javelin throw—Won by Daniel Allen Andover, distance 150 ft. 9 in; W. P. Bradley, Andover, second, distance 144 ft; J. Keleher, Exeter, third, distance 142 ft. 1-2 in.

Pole vault—Won by Charles B. Wright, Andover, height 11 ft. 7 1-2 in.; tie for second place between B. C. Cutler, Andover, and E. L. Johnson, Exeter, at 11 ft. (new record).

Discus throw—Won by Thomas J. Driscoll, Exeter, distance 118 ft. 6 1-2 in.; W. P. Bradley, Andover, second, distance 113 ft. 9 in.; Dan Allen, Andover, third, distance 106 ft. 6 in.

Christian Endeavor Quarterly Meeting

The Andover Christian Endeavor Union met with the West church society Monday evening, and an outdoor meeting was held. Reports were read, and routine business transacted.

Miss Amelia Drew of North Andover, president of the society, was appointed delegate to the Northfield conference this summer. It was also voted to hold a lawn party the last of this month, probably at the Free church. Mrs. Harry Wright sang a solo and Rev. Newman Matthews gave a talk about the convention at Gloucester.

The election and installation of officers followed in the vestry, the officers named being as follows: President, Miss Amelia Drew of North Andover; vicepresident, James Carter of the West church; secretary, Melvin Haynes of the Ballardvale society; treasurer, Wendall Kydd of the Free church society. The chairmen of the different committees are as follows: Quiet hour, William Barnet of the Free church; press agent, Miss Mabel Bailey of the Baptist society; auditor, Herbert W. Carter of the West church; missionary committee, Miss Adelaide Dodge of the South church; Four-Square campaign committee, James Carter. Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free church was chosen pastoral advisor. The Free church carried off the banner.

Following the business ice cream and cake were served and a social enjoyed.

Clan Johnston Bowls Over Clan Grant

Clan Johnston's No. 1 team made a clean sweep, as they did at Lowell, when they met Clan Grant of Lowell on the local alleys Monday night. Hector Keith was high roller with 290 and Charlie Skea was but one pin behind. Willie Ritchie led the Clan Grant hosts with 270. The locals had a wide margin on the total.

The second teams had a closer battle, Clan Grant taking the first round. The middle and the right wing, however, held their ground, and when the battle was over Clan Johnston had 37 more to the good than Clan Grant. Past Chief Dobbie led in the locals' attack with 265.

Past Chief McCrandless of Clan Grant improved every string he rolled and he claimed not as a alibi, that had the other members of this team done the same, Clan Grant would have won or at least secured a drawn battle to fight it out some other day.

The result of the fray:

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

ating class of Phillips academy will be delivered in the Stone chapel Sunday afternoon at half past four by the Rev. William P. Merrill D. D. of New York. Preceding the regular service and beginning at four o'clock, Mrs. John C. Angus and Carl F. Pfatteicher will give a recital of piano and organ music. At the service itself the choir will sing the "Netherlands Hymn of Thanksgiving," the "Domine Salvam Fac" and the Credo from Gounod's "Missa Des Orpheontes."

The gallery will be open to the public and other seats will be provided as far as possible after those connected with the school and relatives of Seniors have been accommodated.

Wednesday evening at eight o'clock the Potter prize speaking will be held in the Stone chapel.

The class day exercises at half past two on Thursday will be followed by the principal's reception and tea. Circumstances make it necessary to restrict invitations for this latter event to seniors and their families, members of the faculty and their wives and members of reunion classes.

Mr. Pfatteicher's choice of selections for the commencement recital to be played on the William C. Egleston memorial organ beginning at quarter past five are as follows: Reubper's Ninety-fourth Psalm and Liest's Fantasie on the Choral, "Ad nos av salutarem undam" said by Saint Saens to be the most remarkable organ piece ever written.

At eight o'clock of the same day the musical clubs will give a concert in the Chapel.

On Commencement day, June 16, the procession of trustees, faculty, alumni, and members of the graduating class will leave Peabody house at 9.40 a.m. The initiation of the Cum Laude Scholarship society will take place at 10.00 a.m., the address being given by Prof. John M. Tyler, Ph. D., of Amherst college. The commencement exercises with the awarding of diplomas and prizes for the year will be at 10.00 o'clock.

The laying of the corner stone for the memorial tower in process of construction at the old training field at the corner of Main and Salem streets will take place at noon.

The alumni dinner will be held in the Borden gymnasium at one o'clock. Frederick C. Walcott '87, of New York, president of the general alumni association will preside and Principal Alfred E. Stearns will be one of the after-dinner speakers. The dinner will be followed by the usual band concert and baseball game, Alumni vs. Academy, held on Brothers field at four o'clock.

Reunion of the classes of '72, '77, '82, '87, '92, '97, '02, '07, and '12 will be held on Thursday and Friday June 15 and 16.

Punchard High School

The Class Day exercises, including the history, prophecy, class gifts, advice to undergraduates and class will, are to be held on the Park on Wednesday afternoon, June 21, at half past three.

The graduation exercises, with the honor essays and presentation of diplomas will take place in the Town hall Thursday evening.

On Friday evening the reunion and banquet with after-dinner speakers planned by the executive committee of the Punchard alumni association will be held in the Town hall. Special reunions will be held by the five-year classes as well as by the classes of 1919 and 1921.

Several members of the class of 1859, the first to be graduated from the school, still survive, and it is expected that some of the number will be present on June 23, while messages will be received from those who cannot attend. The class of 1872, fifty years out, still has a good sized membership, and is planning an enthusiastic reunion. Other reunion committees are as follows

1877—Miss Annie S. Davis, Miss Mary Alice Abbot.

1882—Albert W. Lowe.

1887—Miss M. Winnie Burtt, Mrs. Henry W. Barnard, Perley F. Gilbert.

1892—Mrs. Frank E. Dodge.

1897—Mrs. David M. May, Mrs. Charles S. Warden, Mrs. Joseph Stott.

1902—Miss Louisa Eaton, Miss Dora A. Ward, Miss Carolyn Abbott, Chester D. Ward Abbott.

1907—Miss Helen Eaton, Mrs. Malcolm B. McTernen, Mrs. John Willis.

1912—Miss Mabel Marshall.

1917—Miss Dorothy Cutler, Miss Harriet Carter.

1919—Miss Florence Larkin, Miss Emily Walker, Miss Marion Hill.

1921—Miss Dorothy Ryley, Miss Rachael Boutwell, Miss Isabel Hatch, Laurence Reed, Geoffrey Nicoll.

Junior High School

The graduation exercises of the pupils of the junior high school will be held in the Town hall, Thursday afternoon, June 22, at half past three o'clock.

Completes Sunday School Teachers Training Course

The ten weeks' course in training for Sunday-school teachers which has been held in the South and Free churches, under the direction of W. Vernon Lytle, New England secretary of the Congregational Education society of Boston, came to an end last week. Four of the members took the first examination and passed with a high grade. They were Mrs. E. E. Perry, Miss Jean Dundas and William Mitchell of the Free church, and Mrs. Thaxter Eaton of the South church. This examination counts one point in the three necessary for a diploma. Much interest has been shown in this class, and it probably will be continued next fall.

Free Church News

At the children's service Sunday morning Bibles will be presented to the following children who have been baptized in the Free Church and have reached the age of seven: Stewart Anderson, John Auchterlonie, Jr., William Benson, George Thayer Burridge, Helen Sawyer Buttrick, Mildred Davis Cairnie, Doris Elizabeth Chadwick, Mary Alice Clark, Marion Isabel Coutts, Agnes Caldwell Deyermond, Florence Lavina Dole, Margaret Alexander Edgar, Arthur William Fredrickson, Alexandrina Jane Gollan, James McDonald Gorrie, Jr., Madaline Hay, Catherine Stirling Jamieson, Leonard Garrison Kempton, Marjory Watt Kydd, John Lawrie, Jr., Elizabeth Porter Low, Jennie Haddon Low, Lilly Miller Monro, Stewart Boath Maconachie, Frederick Raymond McCord, John Hamilton McGrath, Allan Cleveland Milnes, Helen Dorothy Nelson, David Lincoln Nicoll, David Ruxton Petrie, Joan Smith Rennie, Edmund Steele Sorrie, Earnest Ferdinin Stein, Jr.

Next Friday evening the Free Church School Building Committee will have charge of a Lawn Party in the interest of the fund for new class rooms. Ice cream, lemonade, candy and other delicacies will be on sale and many interesting features will be presented. If weather conditions are favorable the evening will end with a Radio concert in the parish house. Save this evening!

Fourth of July Plans

Last year it cost $900 to give Andover its first big Fourth of July celebration in years and as much money will be needed to carry out the plans made for this year.

The Legion boys are again making themselves responsible for the undertaking and authorized collectors with the official Legion paper have already begun the canvass. The boys authorized to solicit are Robert Stack, Clarence Eastwood, Eric Hulme, Alfred McKee, James Fairweather, George Killacky, Charles Davis, Frank Markey, and Robert Christie.

The celebration is for the whole town with a few ex-service men doing the work. The success of the celebration depends entirely upon the public support and every one is asked to give liberally.

The bonfire will be the first event and work for building it will be started next Monday in charge of Frank Goodwin. Anyone having material is asked to notify any member of the committee.

There are already eight entries for the horribles parade. This is planned to be a feature and at least double the amount of entries is needed. It is also the costliest part of the day's program as big money prizes are given. Organizations are also urged to enter floats.

Everybody help the workers who are Robert Christie, chairman, F. P. Markey, secretary; Eric Hulme, treasurer, and Alfred McKee, G. Killacky, C. Eastwood, G. Haddon, J. Fairweather, Timothy Madden, Robert Stack, and Charles W. Davis.

Punchard 11 — Exeter 4

Capt. Joe Wright, pitching for Punchard High against Exeter in their annual game at Andover, Monday, was too much for the New Hampshire schoolboys and he turned them back, 11 to 4. Wright let up after the fourth inning when his team had acquired a safe lead and at no time during the game did Exeter threaten. Connors, Exeter's pitching ace, was given miserable support and several misplays made behind him were costly.

The Punchard nine displayed a better brand of baseball throughout. The Andover schoolboys hit the offerings of Connor rather freely and in the closing innings of the game they were aided in scoring when the Exeter High pitcher was unable to locate the plate, and in four innings passed no less than six men. His inability to locate the plate resulted in three of the final tallies scoring. On the other hand Wright was very steady and issued but one pass, and that came in the final inning.

After Punchard had scored three runs in the first four innings Exeter came back and evening it up in the fifth. But the Andover team took a brace in the fifth, scoring four runs by hard hitting. That ended Exeter's hopes of winning.

In the closing inning of the game a number of substitutions were made in the line-up of both teams to give members of the squads who were not regulars a chance to win their letters. Punchard made three substitutions and Exeter made seven. Charles, a former Andover, boy, who was sent in to bat for Goodrich in the ninth, made good when he lined a triple into left center. It was the best hit of the game and he scored shortly after on a misplay.

The game was fairly interesting until the fifth inning when Punchard made four runs by a series of hard hits, giving them a total of seven. Thereafter, Exeter had but little chance to make things interesting as the Andover school boys played air-tight ball after the fifth inning and allowed Exeter to score but one run, that counting in the final frame while substitutions were being made by Exeter.

Paul Dyer turned in some good work in the field and made some exceptionally fine stops around the hot corner and Buchan and Chandler turned in some good work in the field. Wright led the Andover schoolboys with the stick, registering three solid bingles, one of them a double, while Otis also smashed a double into center and Hayden of the Exeter team also doubled. The pegging of Jimmy Dyer to the bases was perfect and the Exeter team members were held close to the bases every time they succeeded in getting men on the paths.

The game was practically void of sensational fielding while misplays that were costly were plenty. Exeter suffered more than Andover in this respect. Hoyt, playing short for Exeter, made all the errors that were recorded against his team, but on one occasion he turned in a pretty piece of fielding when he trapped a hard liner and stopped a run from scoring. His misplays, however, came at bad times and with the luck breaking against him in the early innings he couldn't seem to get going throughout the game.

The Church and the Cabaret

There was a time when the church was accused of being more humanistic then religious. One may well wonder just what adjective is to be applied to it at the present day when it feels constrained to add the "Cabaret" to its manifold entertainments. O tempora, O mores!—

Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips Chapter D. R. Entertained

Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips chapter Daughters of the Revolution held its last regular meeting Saturday, June 3, as the guest of Mrs. H. S. Jenkins at her home on Ballard Vale road.

After a short business meeting the members enjoyed the reading of "The story of the Pilgrim Pageant" which has been part of their season's programme.

Reports were given by Mrs. Ida James and several of the other members who attended the State meeting held in Boston May 26, when the chapter was the hostess and furnished an interesting musical programme consisting of piano and violin selections by Misses Marguerite and Frances Morgan and solos and monologues by Miss Mabel Marshall.

Mrs. Jenkins showed the chapter a large American flag made by her husband's mother during the Civil War and which she said was flung to the breeses at every northern victory.

A social time followed and refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother and daughter.

The meeting closed with a salute to the flag.

Fire Destroys Automobile

A fire in the three-stall garage of William J. Burns of Avon street shortly before midnight Tuesday destroyed his National roadster, badly scorched a delivery truck and a touring car and damaged one end of the garage. The loss, estimated at $2,000 is covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered by Michael M. Dwyer who rang in Box 48 and the entire fire department responded. All three cars were removed from the garage and the firemen quickly extinguished the fire, which had burned a hole through the roof of the building.

The occupants of Mr. Burns' home were alarmed by the smoke which filled the rooms and they believed at first that the house was on fire. Mr. Burns had put his car up a short time before and the cause of the fire is unknown.

Changes with Time

A story going the rounds: "I suppose that girl in the short dress is your daughter, that young man in riding breeches is your son, and the woman in the tea gown is your charming wife." "Nope, you're wrong. The girl in the short dress is my grandmother, the young fellow in the riding breeches is my wife, and the woman in the tea gown is my twelve year old daughter, who likes to dress up in her great-grandmother's dresses."

Rev. E. Victor Bigelow Publishes History of Isles of Shoals

A very readable "Brief History of the Isles of Shoals" written by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of the South church has recently been printed at the Andover Press.

During his sojourns at the Isles of Shoals during his connection with the religious conferences which have of recent years made these islands the mecca of many pilgrims, Mr. Bigelow has been deeply impressed with the charm of these rocky, ocean-bound bits of our New England coast and the varied and significant part which they have played in the history of our country and has gathered together from observation and the study of ancient records a comprehensive and interesting history of the islands.

Beginning with their geological formation, he traces their history from their first discovery by white men through their life as a sailor's fishing camp, an English settlement, the thriving days as the Gosport of American commerce, the desolation of Revolutionary times, the re-settlement by the flotsam and jetsam of humanity, objects of labor of home missionaries, the subsequent prosperous period as a gay summer resort and the latest appeal of the islands as a sanctum for religious conferences.

In the two latter phases the Isles of Shoals are known by many vacationists, but how many of these persons realise that as far back as 1634 the Shoals Settlement was of so great strength that its assessed property was equal to that of New Plymouth and as many as seventeen fishing vessels arrived there from Europe in the single month of March, that in the period between 1650 and 1770 it was a distributing depot for merchandise for all the colonies and for commerce across the wide oceans or that the newspapers of England at that period printed news from America as communicated from their reporter in Gosport, Isles of Shoals.

All these facts with much more that is of interest is set down in Mr. Bigelow's pamphlet which is for sale at the Andover Bookstore, price 50 cents

Clan Auxiliary Fair

A very successful fair and sale was held Saturday afternoon in Garfield hall by the Ladies' auxiliary, 42, of Clan Johnston.

There was a very generous patronage and the well stocked tables of home-cooked food, cake, candy, aprons and miscellaneous articles were speedily cleared of their contents. The ice-cream table was a busy place. As a result the proceeds will approach $100.

Those in charge of the various tables were: Aprons—Mrs. Samuel R Harris, Mrs. Robert Low.

Cake—Mrs. David A. Forbes, Mrs. Gilbert Caldwell.

Candy and ice-cream—Mrs. Alexander Waldie, Miss Marjorie Bissett, Miss Mary Caldwell.

The committee which worked hard to make the sale the great success it was included Mrs. Archibald Davidson, chairman; Mrs. Samuel R. Harris, Mrs. Gilbert Caldwell, Mrs. Alexander Waldie, Miss Marjorie Bissett, Miss Mary Caldwell, Mrs. Thomas Low, and Mrs. G. A. Christie.

After being rejected by the Upper House 15 times, a bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors to minors was passed by the Japanese Diet recently.

A Cold-Blooded View

It is unfortunate that much of the information that the public has relative to congressional proceedings and actual doings of our government, particularly in Washington, is digested by partisan newspapers before being served to the public. Probably no Congress in the history of the United States has ever had more abuse heaped upon it than the present Congress, being charged with a do-nothing policy and practically a complete failure to accomplish anything in the way of results for the benefit of the public. This is the newspaper story, and it is refreshing to turn from the newspaper story to an unbiased review of the situation by one of the big banks in New York City, which in dealing with the results of the Genoa Conference incidentally refers to one of the achievements of the present Congress that cannot be too strongly emphasized with the entire citizenship of the nation.

"Every formula that is given for restoring financial stability among the nations includes the precept that governments must henceforth rigidly reduce their expenses. The United States has thus far succeeded very well in following this precept, for according to a recent statement made by the President to Congress, Government expenditures for the year ending June 30th next will be approximately $1,600,000,000 less than the actual outlay for last year. Other nations have not succeeded so well as the United States in the matter of national economy, although some of them, with Great Britain in the lead, have made an effort, and have succeeded according to the degree of the earnestness which they have applied, and according to the degree in which they have found themselves at the mercy of post-war conditions. Supported by vast resources, and not having suffered so great a war strain as many of the other countries, our national finances have been adjusted so far since the close of the war that the Treasury Department at Washington has found it possible not only to curtail its expenses materially, but in face of smaller tax collections it has actually reduced the national debt by an amount equal to the total of the Civil War debt.

The question was often asked during the war, what will be the attitude of the tax-ridden people toward the institutions of the day, when the fervor of war-time patriotism is gone? The question is now one of vital significance, for we recognize that whereas the war itself broke out at a time when people in Europe were protesting against political and social institutions which had become oppressively expensive, these institutions are now far more expensive than before. In the case of practically all the continental nations we know them to be confronted with the necessity of raising so much for government purposes, without any writing off of old indebtedness, that their people are called upon to give up an extraordinary part of their earnings to the State. There is of course a maximum of taxation beyond which any nation cannot go; to make a tax too extreme kills initiative and incentive, and thus diminishes industrial and commercial prosperity."

It is unfortunate that there cannot be more widespread dissemination of this sort of news.

Editorial Cinders

What an eye opener it must be to the average citizen, who has been in the habit of looking upon the problem of building a road as simply putting on so much new material on top of the old, to see the doings on Main Street! Few people have any notion that crushed stone wears out like anything else if it is allowed to be so placed that water and all the other elements get in and disintegrate it, and many have queried why it would not be possible to build a new road on top of at least a part of what has been taken out. The answer is drainage, drainage and more drainage, as one of the most essential things in the modern road building, hence we find practically two feet of excavation necessary before we build up again for the new paved surface that is to do the final job. Andover of course has never had a highway constructed as completely and as permanently as the work now going on promises. Let us all hope that the result will be all that is expected and that we will have no more problems, so far as this particular section is concerned, for many years to come.

The problem of safe motor operation on the highways becomes more acute every day, and strange as it may seem, the large factor in this increasing disturbance is the increasing number of cases where men are found under the influence of liquor. It is all very well to tell about the man who has not taken a drink for months, and in some cases, years, but it begins to look as if there could be no let-up at all in the way of clemency for the fellow who hazards not only his own life but those of a thousand other operators on the highway, when he gets behind a motor vehicle well spurred on by the kind of poison now being dispensed in one or another of the many surreptitious ways in which booze is being handled. The record of the State department shows an alarming increase in these conditions, and one cannot help feeling grave doubt as to whether or not we are making any real progress toward genuine prohibition under conditions as they now exist.

The Andover-Exeter game tomorrow! And like all classic school boy games, either side may win. It does look on paper, however, and from all the so-called "inside" dope that is available as if Andover had a little bit the best possibilities. We really need a celebration on Saturday night if we are to close the week with the right kind of entertainment, and it is up to the Andover team to furnish it.

Margaret Slattery Class Repeats Play

"Pa's New Housekeeper" was successfully given for the second time on Tuesday evening in the Free church parish house before a large audience.

Previous to the play a short program of music was given including a piano duet by Miss Jean E. Dundas and Miss Evelyn Meyers, vocal solos by Miss Mabel Marshall and Miss Marjorie Bissett and the singing of "Annie Laurie" by the Margaret Slattery quartet, Mrs. Margaret Fairweather, Miss Mary Caldwell, Miss Agnes Thin and Miss Jean Dundas.

Candy was for sale in charge of Miss Jean MacLeish, Miss Annie Ness, Miss Etta Brown and Miss Martha Moore. Miss Grace Lake was the general chairman.

The proceeds of the entertainment and sale will be used for the new tennis court at the rear of the parish house.

Accept Pumping Station in Shawsheen Village

The Board of Public Works met Tuesday night in Shawsheen Village and inspected the new pumping house for the sewage, recently installed by William M. Wood. The Board upon a thorough examination voted unanimously to accept the pump house and to thank Mr. Wood for his gift to the town.

The Board also voted to install water service at several places in town and to paint and improve the house occupied by George H. Spickler at Haggett's pond.

As soon as the water bonds authorized by the special town meeting are available, work will begin immediately on the new service main from the West church, along Lowell street, through Shawsheen Village center, to High street at its junction with Haverhill street.

Six Teachers Tender Resignations

The resignations of several teachers were announced at the meeting of the school committee held Tuesday night and Supt. Sanborn and the teachers' committee were empowered to fill these vacancies or any others which may occur during the summer vacation.

The teachers who resigned are:

Miss Beatrice E. Lane of the commercial department at Punchard.

Mrs. Margaret Tate, grade VI Stowe school.

Miss Kathryn Mahoney, grades II and III Bradlee school.

Miss Helen M. Driscoll, North school.

Miss Sarah G. Campbell, Osgood school.

Miss Glenna M. Glasson, supervisor of music.

The date for the grammar school graduation was set for the afternoon of June 22 and the high school graduation for the evening of the same day.

The Cross Coal company was given the contract for the hard and soft coal for the coming year.

Transportation of school children was discussed but no definite action taken. Proposals for transportation from the E. Babb company of Boston have been received but no action will be taken on these proposals unless one more satisfactory to the committee is received.

There was also a little discussion about discontinuing the Bailey school but nothing definite was decided.

The financial statement is given below.

Elaborate Flag Day Exercises Planned

Lieut. Clement A. Norton, superintendent of Commonwealth Pier, Boston, will deliver the address at the Flag day exercises which are to be held in the Town hall Wednesday evening, June 14, under the auspices of Gen. William F. Bartlett Woman's Relief Corps.

The Orpheus Male quartet of Lawrence will furnish numbers on the program and there will also be singing by children from the Indian Ridge school.

Two children from St. Augustine's parocial school will contribute a reading, "My Flag" and a song "There's no flag like my flag."

Mrs. Hubert Mayo will give a reading and there will be additional music by soloists whose names the committe cannot yet announce.

A silver collection will be taken which will be used for the comfort of soldiers and sailors who are in hospitals.

An important part of the work of the Woman's Relief Corps is the teaching of patriotism and the inculcating of a spirit of reverence for the flag, so that it is particularly appropriate that on the day especially set apart for this purpose, these exercises should be held. The members of the Relief Corps are making every effort to arrange a program worthy of the occasion and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Speakers for the Punchard Banquet

Those who attend the Punchard Banquet, which is to take place in the Town Hall, on Friday evening, June 25rd, have a pleasure in store for them, in the address to be made by Rev. George H. Gutterson, who is to be the chief speaker of the evening. Mr. Gutterson is closely connected with Andover in several ways, although he has not made his home in the town for many years. An Andover boy, and brother of Myron E. Gutterson of Andover he attended the Punchard school, and then went to Phillips Academy, from which he graduated in 1861. He has always been deeply interested in the educational life of Andover, his wife and daughter being Abbot alumnae, and his own connection with the local high school and Academy being responsible for his warm allegiance to them. For a long period of years he has been connected with the American Missionary association, and is now enjoying a well-deserved rest from this work, at his country home in Marshfield. As all Andover people who have heard him know, Mr. Gutterson is a very forceful, humorous and altogether interesting speaker.

Other speakers at the banquet will be Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, who is rounding out his twentieth year as principal of Phillips academy; Hon. John N. Cole, of Andover who has always been interested in the problems and policies of the public schools of the town and particularly of the Punchard school, and Eugene V. Lovely, assistant principal of the School who has been in charge for a number of years of the athletic department, and who is expected to give some interesting information in regard to the growth and needs of this branch of the school's activities.

Tickets for the reunion are selling rapidly and appearances indicate that there will be a record attendance.

Members of the Cradle Roll Go A-fishing

Twenty-five members of the Cradle Roll of the South church Sunday School were entertained yesterday by members of the A. P. C. Sorority assisted by Miss Muriel Johnson.

Bright colored balls furnished amusement for the little ones after which each one was given a rod and line with which to visit the fish pond where souvenirs were hooked by the young anglers. A special souvenir was given to the youngest baby present, Jean Benvie, the three-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Benvie of Maple avenue.

Refreshments were served at small tables decorated in pink for boys and blue for girls.

Mrs. Frank T. Carlton was general hostess. The members of the committee in charge of the afternoon were Mrs. John A. Burtt, Mrs. Paul Ward, Miss Esther Colby, Miss Helen Robertson, Miss Irene Franklin and Miss Mary Robertson.

Run Over by Automobile

Jumping from the rear of an ice cart into the road in front of an automobile driven down Shawsheen road into Abbott village, William Henry McCarthy of 12 Cuba street, was knocked down and run over sustaining a knee cut and numerous bruises. The accident happened yesterday shortly after noon.

Walter C. Pike, who was operating the car, says that he was driving at a low rate of speed as the hill is a dangerous bit of road and that he sounded his horn as he approached the ice cart. Just as he reached the cart, which was standing near the house owned by Henry Povo, two boys ran out from the sidewalk one of whom crossed the road and the other jumped on the ice cart, jumping off directly in front of the automobile giving Mr. Pike no time to avert an accident.

Abbot Alumnae Day

The special gathering of the alumnae of Abbot Academy will be on Monday, June 12, instead of Tuesday, following the precedent of last year, though there will be an adjourned meeting at the regular hour, two o'clock, on Tuesday, in Abbot Hall.

There will be an informal luncheon at McKeen Hall on Monday, preceded by a social half hour at 12 o'clock, and followed by discussion of plans for the greater efficiency of the rapidly growing organization. Changes in the constitution will be proposed by the committee on revision.

Special tribute will be paid to the memory of Miss Agnes Park, secretary of the Association for forty-two years. Report will be made by Miss Alice Twitchell of the proceeds of the Abbot Birthday parties all over the country for the benefit of the Loyalty Fund. Andover alumnae will not be ashamed at the announcement of the sum placed to their credit. The appropriation of this sum to a specific purpose will be suggested.

All former students, whether members of the Association or not, are invited to the luncheon and meeting. There will be a moderate charge to cover expenses. In order that arrangement may be made for sufficient numbers, luncheon tickets should be ordered of Miss Kate Jenkins, telephone 319, at once, or obtained as early as possible on Saturday at Alumnae Headquarters.

Headquarters will be open at McKeen hall through the Commencement season. Here will be found the information bureau, registration book, mail delivery, and etchings, post cards and seals on sale for the Loyalty Fund.

On Tuesday after the Tree Exercises, all former students are asked to form in line following the Alumnae marshal, and proceed to the South Church, where seats will be reserved in the gallery.

A cafeteria for the convenience of alumnae will be conducted in the basement of Abbot Hall.

WEDDINGS

CLARKE—SMITH

Major and Mrs. Marlborough Churchill, United States Army, announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Elisabdth Miller Smith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Smith of Andover, Massachusetts, to Mr. Charles Edwin Fletcher Clarke of New York, which took place at their home in Washington, D. C., on Monday, June 5.

Mr. Clarke is president of the Penn Water and Power Company and vice president of the Consolidated Gas, Electric and Power Company of Baltimore, the Baltimore Tube Company and the Eastern Rolling Mill Company. He is also a director of the United Railway Company of Baltimore and of Rolls-Royce of America, Incorporated. He is a member of the Racquet and Tennis Club and the India House of New York, of the Apawamis Club of Rye and of the Maryland Club of Baltimore.

After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will live at Rye, New York.

MURPHY—ROBERTSON

Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Isabel Robertson, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Robertson of 17 Cuba street, and Henry Murphy were united in marriage by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock at his residence, Summer street.

The single ring service was used. The bride who wore a travelling dress of blue was attended by Miss Ann S. Leslie as bridesmaid. Joseph Veit was best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother where a wedding lunch was served. Both are popular young people and they received many beautiful wedding gifts. The groom is employed in the Wood mill, Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left on a short wedding trip and on their return will live at 17 Cuba street.

The Shawsheen School

Editor of Townsman;

Citizens of Shawsheen Village are wondering what is to be done next September for the accommodation of its children who will attend the village school. The present school has been declared inadequate by the authorities of the town, yet so far as the public knows, no action has been taken to provide proper housing for the constantly increasing school population.

Shawsheen Village has received in the past few weeks 18 new families and the children of school age in these families number approximately 40. Every day is bringing others and Mr. Wood is particularly interested in having the new houses in Shawsheen given to those who have families. With the large number of houses already completed and many others that will be finished and occupied before the opening of schools in September, it can readily be seen that the residents of Shawsheen Village have ample reason to ask what is being done to provide school accommodations for its children.

The town at a special meeting held nearly two months ago heard the report of the joint committee of the selectmen and the school committee. It was stated that the committee had sites in view and the town gave the selectmen authority to name a site and report to a later meeting. From that day to this, not a word has been heard and to my way of thinking it looks as though some one was trying to "pass the buck."

How much longer is the present attitude of these who have charge of the education of the children of the town to continue, is what we Shawsheen parents are wondering! The present schoolhouse is neither sanitary nor healthy and many children contracted bad colds there last winter. I believe that the state authorities would condemn the building if it was brought to their attention.

Shawsheen Village needs a new schoolhouse and now. Action should be taken by those instructed by the town and an honest effort made to begin a new school before conditions get any worse.

What do you say, honorable board of selectmen and members of the school committee?

Daily Ford Output nearly Five Thousand

The total production of Ford cars passed the six million mark on May 18, is the information just received by R. P. Jones, Manager of the local Ford branch. This gives a production in excess of a million for the past year, the five million mark having been achieved on May 28, 1921.

Of this staggering total of six million cars and trucks, 5,517,956 have been delivered to purchasers in the United States alone and the most recent statistics show that 4,478,248 of this number are still in daily service.

When consideration is given to the fact that the present type motor has been in production for fourteen years and that four out of every five Ford cars and trucks during this period are still in actual service, the conception of the long life of Ford cars is substantially borne out.

Daily production at the Ford Motor Company is now close to 5,000 cars, the record one-day output of 4,878 having been achieved on May 16 and on the previous working day in May, 4,862 cars were completed.

May production will total 130,000 and the estimated output for June has already been raised to 140,000 which is the greatest production output for a single month ever aimed at by 10,000.

The distribution of Ford cars and trucks throughout the country is almost evenly distributed in relation to population in every state with the eastern states with their densely populated cities to the western tates with their sparsely settled communities.

Eight states show a total of over 200,000 cars and trucks in service, Ohio leading with 290,769, with Illinois, Pennsylvania, Texas Michigan, New York, Iowa, and California following in the order named.

The total of approximately four and a half million Ford Cars in daily service means there is a Ford for every five families in the United States.

Sacramento, California, is importing the mosquito-catching top minnow which will be placed in ponds in dredger pits. The minnow is being brought by the state board of health in the campaign against malaria.

An instrument has been devised at the Oregon Experiment Station to indicate just when pears have reached the right stage of maturity for eating, canning or shipping. It consists of an apparatus which measures the pressure required to punch shallow holes one-half inch in diameter in the flesh of the pear. Bartlett pears requiring 35 pounds pressure to make the perforations are ready for picking and for long-distance transportation.

SEAMAN'S 17 WOUNDS ARE SEWED WITH SAIL TWINE

Heroic Efforts of Shipmates Save the Life of Engineer Injured in Explosion.

Heroic efforts by his shipmates who sewed 17 wounds in his abdomen with sail twine and heavy needles and then wrapped his body tightly with adhesive tape, saved the life of Boyd O'Neal, an engineer on board the steamship New England, while at sea, according to a report made by Captain William Rind of the United States line's S. S. America.

The captain's own services in promptly answering the distress call of the New England, his taking aboard of the injured man and providing adequate surgical aid also figured largely in preserving O'Neal's life.

Captain Rind, who answered a radio call from the New England, to lend aid in taking aboard a man who had been injured in an explosion, told in a letter to the office of his company how the transfer took place shortly after dawn, when the America with 1,500 passengers on board was nearing the English coast on her way to Bremen.

The transfer was accomplished and he was carried to Bremen and placed in a hospital there. To give assistance the America made a detour of 160 miles.

O'Neal, who was a veteran of the United States navy, was injured while making repairs in the engine room through the bursting of a steam pipe. Several of his mates who went to his assistance were scalded and cut. One of the bones of O'Neal's right ankle was blown away, his right foot was badly injured and he received 17 wounds in the abdomen. Prompt aid through the rough surgery of his shipmates saved O'Neal's life, according to the America's doctors.

FIND NEW GAME FISH

Salmon of Pacific Waters Discovered in Eastern Canadian Lake.

A fish has become part of the records of the Canadian government.

An entry recently made in the official archives showed that a few weeks ago a spring or quinnat salmon, known heretofore only in the waters of the Pacific coast, was caught in the Bay of Quinte. It was a male in spawning condition, weighed 8½ pounds and was 33 inches long.

Three years ago the department of fisheries planted quinnat salmon in Lake Ontario. Several million fry were set free. They lost themselves in the great lake. Nothing more was known of them. Whether they perished or thrived, remained in the deeps of Lake Ontario or, following the migratory bent of their kind, found their way to the Atlantic through the St. Lawrence was an enigma.

The scheme was a gigantic gamble. The Bay of Quinte salmon is the first indication that the government has won and the waters of eastern Canada have been enriched with a new game fish.

STANDS PATIENT ON HEAD

Dr. West Has Upside-Down Cure for Misplaced Abdominal Organs.

Standing a patient on his head and gently shaking him in the manner in which a wife sometimes treats her husband's trousers has proved an efficacious treatment for prolapsed and misplaced abdominal and pelvic organs, according to a paper read before the annual convention of the Eastern Osteopathic association at Atlantic City by Dr. William West, a New York specialist.

Doctor West, who is the discoverer of the new "shakedown" treatment, has named it the "oscillatory-gravity treatment," and claims to have achieved remarkable results.

Rowed Nine Miles for Mail.

Capt. Chauncey Fitzmorris of West Sister Island, near Port Clinton, O., came to the mainland one day some time ago for the first time since last November, after having spent the winter on West Sister island, where he has charge of the lighthouse. Captain Fitzmorris rowed nine miles across the lake to mainland near Locust Point and then came to Port Clinton by interurban car to get his winter's accumulation of mail.

Sold Rum Like Huckster.

Police are holding a bootlegger who is said to have shouted his wares from an automobile after the manner of leather-lunged hucksters at Sharpsburg, Pa. The man gave his name as Teofil Olszewski. For twenty minutes the policemen followed the "huckster," witnessing several sales of whiskey from the automobile at $1.25 a half pint, they say, and heard Olszewski continue his ear-splitting yells of "vodka."

Man Dies in Theater During Play.

Mendel Dellson, of Staten Island, N. Y., died of heart disease in a theater during the performance. Persons near him continued to applaud the actors, not realizing that the man was dead. A woman usher discovered Dellson was dead when she could not arouse him.

Poison 60,000 Jackrabbits in 21 Days.

Sixty thousand jackrabbits killed in three weeks, as a result of eating poison-saturated barley, is the record of biological survey workers who were conducting a campaign against the pests in the Fort Rock valley, near Bend, Ore.

The Summer Girl will Outshine the Rainbow

A dozen rainbows more or less will have nothing on the American summer girl, for it is now definitely settled that she will be visible a mile away from a given point of observation.

Each of the primary colors, red, yellow and blue; and the secondaries, green, orange and violet, representing the strongest hues possible to dye, will be the six leaders. Not infrequently they will be worn with white, which in many cases serves to intensify, by striking contrast, any one of the foregoing favorites.

White will be second favorite, especially with women of fashion who can afford frequent changes, and white and black in combinaton will follow in order of favor.

As for combinations, white dresses will be embellished with brilliant colors in the form of girdles with long, flowing ends, and the girdles will be made of ribbons in prismatic colors twisted together.

Sweaters in brilliant colors are to be worn with white dresses and the variety of colored sweaters will be in proportion to the amount of spending money apportioned for personal adornment.

Colors in variety will also find expression in the form of separate skirts to be worn with white waists, which always bob up serenely when summer time comes round again.

Stripes, checks, overchecks and plaids, too, will be used to adorn white grounds of cotton, silk or wool.

Knitted silks and woolens are the high novelties for sport wear. In silks, knitted weaves have advanced to the front rank of favor and apparently are permanently established, especially when woven from artificial silk.

In cotton novelties, not infrequently the designs are in large florals, and widely spaced. The primary colors, red, yellow and blue, are also assembled in checks, broken checks and plaids to form decorations in white grounds. The designs are drawn from French Ratines, which are the outstanding cotton novelties of the season.—Dry Goods Economist.

Touching Faith

The little boy in the woods took out of his pocket a small bottle and sprinkled a few drops of it in front of the hole into which he had just chased a cottontail.

"Why do you do this incantation?" asked the gentleman who was out rabbit hunting with the lad.

"I wanted to go out and cut a stick to twist the little rascal out, and I was afraid he might get away while I was gone. So I just sprinkled a little of this tonic there to keep the hare from coming out. — Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Tubbs of Shantytown

The success of the diverting little farce, Mrs. Tubbs of Shantytown" presented at the Grange hall Thursday and Friday evenings June first and second added a substantial sum to the vestry fund.

The play was directed by Mrs. Hubert Mayo, assisted by other members of the community, Mrs. George B. Ward, Mrs. John Buchan, Mrs. Nellie Moosar and Miss Margaret Ward.

The attendance was very large at both performances. (In addition to the people there were swarms of mosquitoes, which vanished with the lights during the performance but feasted ravenously on the audience, who fortified themselves for the onslaught with refreshments, in the form of tonics and ice cream.)

The cast was well chosen. One and all played with engaging confidence and smoothness of technique which plainly showed the skilful training and directing under Mrs. Mayo. Such confidence and smoothness is seldom found in so youthful a handful as Mrs. Tubbs' merry quartet.

The key to the dramatic action lay in the absence of Mrs. Tubbs' admirable son, Jim, and these climaxes were skilfully reached by Mrs. Mayo in the role of the mother.

The cast threw away no opportunities to build up interesting and humorous situations and individual well-developed characters.

The children gave to the youthful characters a curious and wholesome charm, from little Hunky Dunks to Scuffles. Mrs. Mayo as Mrs. Tubbs impersonated skilfully the beaming, "laundry lady" and entertained with the earnest and quaint philosophy of life. An airy spinster, a bachelor, a garrulous neighbor, an interesting young census taker and pretty school teacher made for rare comedy, foolery and romance.

The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Mollie Tubbs, sunshine of Shanty Town — Mrs. Hubert Mayo
Miss Clingy Vine, spinster, very genteel — Mrs. Philip Moosar
Mrs. Hickey, a gossiping neighbor — Mrs. Herbert Carter
Simon Rubbes, corner grocery — Edward W. Burtt
Tom Riorden, the census-taker — George Baxter
Miss Maybelle Campbell, a pretty school teacher — Miss Jennie Burtt
Methuselem Tubbs, age 12 (Scuffles) — Miss Abbie Monan
Queenie Sheba Tubbs, age 10 — Miss Winona Boutwell
Billy Blossom Tubbs, age 7 — Master Clarence Moosar
Victoria Hortensia Tubbs, age 5 (Hunky Dunks) — Master Donald Mayo
Elmira Hickey, a neighbor — Miss Lena Davis

The programs were a gift from Miss Frances Craig.

Solicitations from the following houses brought forth a quanity of good things to eat and sell and the committee aknowledge gratefully the contributions which were on sale both nights in the lower grange hall: Johnson Candy Co., F. H. Roberts Conf. Co., H. E. Foss Conf. Co., Page & Shaw, Shawsheen Market, Sands, Taylor & Wood Co., Heines Pickle Co., Shredded Wheat Co., Cream Corn Starch Co., Proctor & Gamble, Baker Extract Co., Foss Extract Co., Stickney & Poor Co., Chase & Sanborn, Houghton & Dutton, H. P. Hood Co. Inc., Curran & Joyce, Logan & Johnson Co.

The success of the venture is reflected in the proceeds, for something over $200.00 was realized. The management is to be praised as well as the entire cast who by cooperation and keen interest put the venture "over the top."

The play will be repeated in Ballardvale on June 15th.

Grange News

The Women's club of Andover Grange will hold a sewing meeting at Grange hall on Tuesday afternoon. A good attendance is desired as several matters of importance are to be voted on.

It will be "Children's Night" at the Grange Tuesday evening. A special program is planned for entertainment and refreshments will be served. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Carter have the affair in charge.

Mrs. Ida Shaw, George Harrington and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snow attended the Riotelle-Harrington wedding reception at Lowell on Wednesday evening.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Ossian Johnson and Florence Bruce of Saco, Maine on Sunday June 4. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bruce. Mrs. Bruce will be remembered as Annie Luscomb by West Parish people.

The Bailey District group of the "Vestry Fund" workers will hold a lawn party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton Sr. on Saturday afternoon. Come and help make the party a financial and social success.

The Andover Christian Endeavor Union held its quarterly meeting with the West church society. The meeting was held as far as possible out of doors. The attendance was good, the Free church carrying off the banner for the highest per cent of members present.

Interesting Jelly-making Demonstration

The jelly and jam-making demonstration was a meeting brimful of ideas from beginning to end. Practical methods of making these delicious additions to our bills-of-fare were clearly given, showing how to use all available material. Currant jelly was made from fruit canned two years ago ;the result was a delicious jelly and it was made with much less sugar than housewives have been taught to use in the past. Strawberry jam which was of a good consistency and fine color was also made with less sugar than usual. A new way of cutting and cooking apples for jelly was shown. Directions were given for making 10 pounds of grapes into grape-juice, grape butter and grape jelly all of good quality. Mr. Cole gave one the idea that jelly and jam-making was an art and could be made a pastime if one chose. Miss Bunce is planning to start a class in household arts and all who are interested in belonging to such a class are invited to send their names to Mrs. George L. Averill or Mrs. Herbert Carter stating their preference as to the subject to be studied. Don't delay sending in your name, for plans for fall work must be made now.

DOES NOT UNDERSTAND GIFT

Frenchman Absolutely Without Education Is Unable to Explain His Mathematical Powers.

Jacques Inaudi is in Paris. Nightly he demonstrates his extraordinary feats of calculation. He displays always the same assurance, the same accuracy, and when, occasionally, he gets too stiff a question, for just a second he presses his hands to his wide forehead before answering—exactly the same gesture he had forty-two years ago when he came to the capital for the first time.

That was in 1880, observes Le Petit Parisien, Paris (translated for the Kansas City Star). Inaudi was then 11 years old. The son of poor Piedmontese peasants, he knew neither how to read nor write, but after a few minutes of the intense abstraction of the savant he could solve the most complex mathematical problem.

Wandering about the world, displaying a trained monkey in cafes for a livelihood, it was a custom to ask his audience to put arithmetical problems to him, and his fantastical ease in solving them finally attracted the attention of a Marseilles merchant, who brought him to Paris.

He completely amazed the scholars and in a few days was celebrated. He could never explain the mechanism of his calculations. He simply possessed the mysterious power with which certain human beings are sometimes gifted. Broca, who measured his skull, found the head abnormally developed on the right side. That was all. Inaudi has remained ever since a marvelous calculating machine, a living prodigy, but has made no new contributions to the progress of mathematics.

CAN SEE GROWTH OF METALS

Interesting Experiments Conducted by Ohio Professor Recently Made Public by Scientific Monthly.

When a piece of iron wire is placed in a solution of potassium ferricyanide (2 to 4 per cent), containing some egg-white or gelatine to act as protective colloid, and a little sodium chloride, delicate blue-green vesicles and tubules of ferrous ferricyanide are quickly formed; the tubules grow out rapidly into the solution, and within half an hour or less the whole wire is covered with a dense filamentous growth resembling blue green algae, writes Prof. Ralph S. Lillie of Nela research laboratory, Cleveland, O., in the Scientific Monthly.

Iron is an especially favorable metal for such experiments apparently because of the presence of numerous local electric couples between different areas of the metallic surface, and filaments several centimeters long are readily obtained. These often exhibit delicate and regular cross-striations and other appearances suggestive of organic structure.

If instead of iron the related metals, cobalt and nickel, are used, a different type of growth is obtaind, coarser and more vesicular in structure and with finer tubules; many of the latter follow a characteristic, tortuous or zigzag course.

Disliked Such Hints

"I see," he said, "that coal has gone up again."

"Has it?" she replied.

"And they're raising rents," she continued.

"Well," she exclaimed, flaring up, if you wish to have our engagement broken off, say so. I always hate to have people beat about the bush in a case of this kind."—Stray Stories.

The navy Department estimates it will cost $2,800,000 to offset the damage done dikes, wharves and quay walls, by the teredo. The teredo is a marine animal, a bivalve, which bores its way into a pile. Teredoes sometimes reach four feet in length and of the thickness of a man's thumb.

Mother's Club Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the Andover mother's club held Wednesday afternoon reports of the secretary and treasurer were read showing that the club had been doing good work helping the poor and sick as well as assisting the schools.

The club accepted an invitation extended by tMrs. Charles Buchan to visit at her cottage at Hampton Beach on August 16.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: president Mrs. Charles Buchan; first vice president, Mrs. Frank Foster; second vice president, Mrs. William Waycott; secretary, Mrs. Alexander Crockett; treasurer, Mrs. Otis Keith; executive committee, Mrs. Ralph Coleman, Mrs. B. F. Hatch, Mrs John Collins; auditor, Mrs. William Brown.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, and fancy cookies were served by Mrs. Buchan, Mrs. Keith, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. E. C. Cole.

Christ Church Notes

The Odd Fellows and kindred groups will attend the service at 10:30 on Sunday.

It is hoped that Saturday, June 10, will be a day suitable for the picnic of the Church school. The trucks and autos will leave the parish house at 9 a. m., returning from Canobie Lake so that they will reach Andover about 6 o'clock.

The kindness of Jerome W. Cross is appreciated for two of the trucks will be sent by him. The two trucks and other autos from Shawsheen Village will join the group as they pass through the Village.

The Circle of Friendship enjoyed the picnic which they held at Mrs. Dick's camp on Tuesday last Nearly all the present number of members were there.

Philathea Class Presents Gift to Miss Michelini

The regular meeting of the Philathea class of the Baptist church was held Friday evening with thirty members present. The vestry was decorated with flowers for the occasion.

A pleasant feature of the social hour, held at the close of the business session, was the presentation of a beautiful mahogany tray and a half a dozen glasses to Miss Isabelle Michelini whose marriage to Theodore De Luca will take place this month. The gift was presented by Mrs. Clare Norton in behalf of the Philathea class and the Farther Lights society.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Miles Ward, Mrs. William Fraize and Mrs. Colver J. Stone.

A. P. C. Sorority Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the A. P. C. Sorority held in the South church vestry with Mrs. Paul Ward presiding, officers and committees for the ensuing year were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Roy Hardy; vice president, Miss Irene Franklin; secretary, Miss Esther L. Colby; treasurer, Miss Jennie Gadapee; chaplain, Mrs. Philip L. Hardy; guardian, Miss Maria Fairweather; corresponding secretary, Miss Phyllis Cunningham; press correspondent, Miss Phyllis Cunningham; social committee, Miss Maria Fairweather; Miss Mabel Marshall, Miss Jennie Gadapee, Miss Edith Kendall, Miss Mary Zecchini; flower, Miss Irene Franklin; membership, Mrs. Paul Ward, Miss Agatha Wade, Miss Irene Franklin.

A special meeting of the society was held last evening for the purpose of sewing for the Boston Floating hospital.

Preparing for the Battle

This was at a solemn conference preceding a church wedding. There were present the groom, the best man, the ushers and the guest list.

"You understand," said the best man, "you meet 'em when they come in and ask 'em if they are friends of the bride or the groom."

"And then what?" asked the head usher.

"Why, you seat the friends of the bride on one side of the church and the friends of the groom on the other. It's the custom."

"I can't see the use 'o that," said the head usher. "They'll take sides soon enough."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

COURT OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

December term, A.D. 1921 held at Salem:

Walter S. Donald and others, Inhabitants of the Town of Andover in said County, by their petition to said Commissioners, represent that common convenience and necessity require that Haverhill Street, so called, from near Burnham Road to the North Andover town line be straightened and the lines thereof be defined, and that specific repairs be made on said road to better accommodate the travel thereon.

WHEREFORE: They pray that after due notice and a hearing the Commissioners may alter or relocate said road and discontinue any portions thereof which may no longer be necessary, and may order specific repairs to be made thereon.

This petition was entered at the August term 1921 when notice was ordered given to all persons and corporations interested therein of the time and place when and where the Commissioners would meet for the purpose of viewing the premises and hearing the parties, as by their order of notice on file and of record will more fully appear.

It having been made to appear that all persons and corporations interested therein had been duly notified of the time and place of meeting, we, the County Commissioners for said County, did on the 11th day of October A. D. 1921 meet at Shawsheen Hall in Shawsheen Village in said County, when and where the parties appeared and no person interested appeared to object; and having viewed the premises and heard all parties who desired to be heard, we do now adjudge that common convenience and necessity require that the said way be relocated and that specific repairs be made thereon as prayed for in said petition.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have hereunto set our hands this 31st day of January in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

CARELESS SMOKING CAUSES FIRES

By Peter E. Walsh, former chief of the Boston Fire Department

When you partially smoke a cigarette and then carelessly throw it aside, it has probably never occurred to you that all brands do not take the same time for consumption.

For example, a Sweet Caporal is continuously combustible for only five minutes and five seconds, but the Helmar has a record of thirty minutes and fifty-five seconds. A Richmond Straight Cut will go for eleven minutes and twenty-five seconds, while the Pall Mall will burn itself out in thirty minutes and twenty-five seconds. The Home Run, is a twelve-minute burner, and a Murad will go for twenty-six minutes and forty seconds. The Perfection will die at thirteen minutes and twenty seconds and a Mogul keep in combustion for twenty-seven minutes.

The cigar and the cigarette are not in themselves a menace to property. It is only because we smokers are careless in throwing them aside that they cause an average loss of more than $18,000,000 in the United States each year. The price which Massachusetts paid last year was $1,192, 975. If the fire chiefs of the state could get you smokers together for a friendly chat on this subject I feel certain that your co-operation would cut this loss in half in one year.

Some of the most frequent causes of fire due to the habits of careless smokers may be enumerated as follows:

Throwing a lighted cigar or cigarette butt into a receptacle containing waste material or rubbish; into a remote corner where lodgement is found in a crack in the floor; behind a steam or hot water radiator; out of a window where it may alight on an awning below; placing a hot pipe in the pocket of a garment; allowing sparks to fall from a pipe and igniting combustible articles; lighting a cigar, cigarette or pipe where volatile inflammable fluids are present; smoking in bed, etc.

Attention is drawn to a few typical cases of disasters which resulted directly from careless use of matches and smoking.

The Windsor Hotel in New York City was destroyed by fire some years ago, causing the death of forty-five persons. In this instance a guest, about seventy years of age, lighted a cigar and tossed the flaming match into a lace curtain. He was either too frightened or too feeble to tear the curtain down and extinguish the blaze, and thereupon resulted one of the worst hotel fires in the history of New York.

The terrible fire at the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory in New York City a few years ago, in which one hundred and forty-five girls lost their lives, was started by a careless cigarette smoker who ignited scrap material on the floor.

It might be apropos to mention here the fact that the utter disregard of the "No Smoking" rule in many factories and plants is one of the principal reasons for an annual serious loss of life and property. A record of three hundred and ninety-two factory fires shows that one hundred and seventy-three were caused by careless smokers.

There is a case on record where a night watchman started a fire in a factory under his care by smoking while taking a nap in a bed which the factory management had so considerately provided for his use. This man, who would be classed among the army of "watchless watchmen," was overcome by the smoke from the fire, but a vigilant automatic sprinkler head operated in time to save his life.

TRAVELING MAN HAS STOMACH RECONSTRUCTED

Fainting Spells and Distress Relieved by Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

"Last October," writes Walter Furmin, traveling salesman of Richfield Springs, N. Y., "when I was in Plattsburg I was bothered a lot with indigestion, dyspepsia and a bloated feeling brought on by excess gas. Fainting spells would attack me suddenly, and I was in dire distress. In seeking relief, I was advised to try JAQUES' LITTLE WONDER CAPSULES. This I did and before reaching the hotel that night for retiring I had decided relief. I felt so much better the following morning that I purchased an additional box, and found that one capsule following each meal has since reconstructed my stomach and now feel remarkably well. My brother-in-law recently had an acute attack of indigestion, something that often troubled him, and within a few minutes after swallowing two of the capsules, he was relieved."

If you are one of the suffering ones you can still save your stomach by using Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. Just swallow one or two capsules and you will find prompt relief. The pure gelatin covering dissolves within one or two minutes after reaching the stomach, releasing the finely powdered medicines to do their effective work. One capsule aids in digesting 3,000 grains of food.

If you are bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, sour stomach, dizziness after eating, gas, biliousness or constipation try this valuable prescription.

Twelve days' treatment costs but 60 cents. Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are sold under a strict guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded.

On sale at W. C. Crowley's, Andover, Mass., or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Largest Number of Stockholders of Any Company in World

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company has 201,000 stockholders of record, more than any other company in the world. It continues to beat its own record, adding to the list at the rate of approximately 3,000 monthly.

On December 31, 1921, there were 186,342 shareholders, an increase of 46,894 for the year.

Average holding is 28 shares, the lowest on record, showing a broader distribution of its stock then ever before.

In 1906 there were only 18,194 stockholders with an average holding of 72 shares.

At the present rate of increase it would not be surprising if at the end of 1922 the company had a quarter of a million holders of record. The above figures do not take into consideration the 100,000 employees who are paying off subscriptions to the stock. Most of these will be holders of record when payments are complete.

Survey Shows Employees' Representation Is Gaining.

RESULTS MOSTLY FAVORABLE

Some Employers Report Labor Turnover Is Decreased by New System—Improvement Shown in Relations Between Employer and Employee Where Management and Men Have Worked Together With Common Interest in Experiment.

The national industrial conference board, representing a large number of the leading employers' associations in the country, recently announced that a survey just completed shows that an increasing number of firms are establishing some form of employee representation in their plants, "and," the board added, "with generally favorable results." The tendency is not confined to any one section, it was said, as was shown by an examination of nearly 800 such plants.

"The present study," said a statement from the board, "was undertaken in April, 1921, to furnish grounds for estimating the value of employee representation in industry on the basis of actual experience.

"The report shows the sharp difference between the plants where inauguration was forced by war necessity and those developed later by voluntary action of the two parties concerned," says the board. "Most of the 'shop committees' set up by the national war labor board and the shipbuilding adjustment board have ceased to function, the common explanation given being that they were imposed upon the plants by an outside body, usually after a dispute between employer and employees, and that neither side desired their establishment or was willing to give the genuine co-operation necessary for a fair trial of their possibilities.

Importance of Co-operation.

"On the other hand, where management and men have worked together with a common interest in the experiment, practically every plant reports an improvement in relations between employer and employee, attributable to the opportunity to come into direct and intimate contact and to learn each other's ideas and difficulties. Increased loyalty has been the result where employees have come to realize that they are working with the management rather than for them. The tendency at first, so far as employees were concerned, was to confine their efforts to the adjustment of complaints and personal grievances, but under intelligent guidance and interest on the part of management, a broader understanding of the questions involved has been developed in the employee representatives, who have been able to an increasing degree to make satisfactory adjustment of such minor disputes between foremen and employees.

"Suggestions made by employees with reference to their work may be divided into two main groups—those which would improve working conditions and those which would increase production. The former, such as the installation of a new drinking fountain or the rearrangement of lights, are relatively easy to secure. The latter, based on the practical knowledge and experience of employees, will be advanced only when employees have confidence in the fairness of management.

"Where reduction in wages or in working force or a change in working schedules has been necessary, the board's report shows that in plants which had used their works councils as a means of keeping the representatives, and through them the employees, informed of the business outlook, both for the country as a whole and for their individual concerns, the employees understood the need for such changes and acquiesced with much less dissatisfaction and ill feeling than would otherwise have been shown.

Attitude of Foreman.

"One chapter in the report is devoted to the attitude of foremen toward works councils, and another to the effect of councils on relations between foremen and employees. Reports regarding their attitude were received from 440 plants. In 352 of these it was stated that their foremen had been in favor of the plan from its inception. In 72 they had regarded it with disfavor at first, but later had come to see its effectiveness. Only 16 reported continued indifference to the plan. These figures show that the majority fell in with the idea at once, while those whose approval came later were fearful at first that installation of work councils would mean a curtailment of their authority, especially where the council was of the 'committee' rather than the 'industrial democracy' type.

"The last part of the report is given over to employers' opinions as to the value of works councils in industry. These show that much depends on the manner of their installation and the sympathetic attitude and co-operation of both management and workers. The importance of continued interest on the part of employers as well as employees is emphasized. Works councils have been found of special value in large organizations where the size of the plant and the number of workers make difficult any degree of personal and friendly contact between management and employees."

NOW RESTS AT MANILA BAY

Ship, Officers and Crew Alike Overtaken by Adverse Fate for Months—Heavily Involved in Debt, Vessel Cannot Be Sold and Cannot Leave—Turns Back to Manila After Months of Fighting Against Heavy Weather—Often Changes Hands.

Swinging idly at her mudhook, which has rested in the ooze of Manila bay for more than one year; her lofty spars towering smartly in the air above the bedraggled outcasts of the seven seas that surround her, lies the most unlucky windjammer of modern times—the American four-masted bark Monongahela. Near by a squatty wooden tramp no longer than a harbor tug, with rust streaked funnels, sneers derisively at her from every pitch-stained gaping seam, for all the world like some bloway reprobate of the slums accosting a decent girl who has wandered by mistake into her bailiwick.

Astern of her and all along the four miles of beach between the Luneta and the Polo club lie the bleaching, rusting ribs of stripped and gutted vessels which will never sail the seas again. Week in and week out, the trim liners slip by, plying between the homeland and Eastern ports; month in and month out the white-sided transports churn their sturdy bulks past her to and from San Francisco; destroyer divisions come and destroyer divisions go; the lifting wakes of cruisers lap along her sides as they steam proudly past her in studied disdain, and still the poor Monongahela lies, fretting at her anchor chain.

A Tale of Bad Luck.

The story of the Monongahela is one of romance and ill luck, a story of months of fighting against head seas and winds in the stormy China sea, of litigation and changes of ownership, of misfortune that has dogged not only the ship herself but also her officers and crew, and that has succeeded in binding endless chains of circumstances about her until the fate of the vessel is so much in doubt that she may hang in Manila bay until at last she is towed to rest her weary bones along the shores of Cavite. And the cruel part of it is that, given a chance, the Monongahela is good for many more years of cruising on the high seas. That is the part that makes the lonely vessel the most pathetic sight in this port of derelicts.

More than two years ago—in January, 1920—the Monongahela cleared from San Francisco with a full crew of forty-nine officers and men, bound for Wellington, New Zealand. Thence she sailed for Sydney and Newcastle, New South Wales, and from the last named port to Manila. While on this leg of the voyage a seaman, reeling on one of her lofty spars, lost his footing in a heavy squall and fell to the deck, to die a week later. From that time her ill luck seemed to date. She made Manila after a fairly long voyage and finally cleared from that port with 2,000 tons of copra cake and meal, in the middle of October, 1920, bound for San Francisco. For some unexplained reason, apparently due to orders from her owners, Captain Elwell, who wanted to take the southern route home, was forced to go via a northern route.

Fought for Months.

Hardly had the Monongahela dropped Corregidor below the horizon than she ran into heavy weather. After that she had never a day of rest. Gale after gale buffeted her, squall after squall forced her from the course as she struggled to make her way. Days lengthened into weeks, weeks into months, and still the Monongahela doggedly fought her way. From the Gulf of Tongking to the Formosa Straits the big four-master fought it out. And day by day her crew sickened of their eternal task of alternately making and reducing sail, and day by day the water and food grew scantier. Captain Elwell gave up trying to shake his way clear for the long trip to the States and tried to make some Chinese port. Even this seemed impossible, for he was blown back to Luzon again. At last, heart-sick, with provisions and water almost gone and officers and men at the limit of their endurance, the vessel's head was swung about and a course laid back to Manila.

Then, as if to prove its contrariness, the weather shifted, and when the vessel and her crew could not possibly make the trip, the wind blew favorably for China. It was only after almost super-human struggles that once again the Monongahela made a landfall and fought her way literally inch by inch up to Corregidor and into the bay.

There human endurance failed, and it was only when a coast guard cutter passed her a friendly hawser and towed her within the breakwater, just 107 days from the time she had cleared the port, that the big bark was at rest. When the anchor dropped and the big chain cable roared through the hawse hole skipper and crew had their first period of relaxation in three and a half months.

Changes Hands Many Times.

In the meantime the Monongahela had passed from the hands of the shipping board into the possession of a New York shipping firm, and as a matter of fact the vessel changed hands several times, one owner having become involved in financial difficulties. The crew deserted when they were not paid. Captain Elwell became sick and Captain Lothigius took command. He worried about his vessel and made all efforts to get a bottomry bond that would clear the vessel of the debts that hung over her from local firms and the shippers whose cargo had not been delivered in San Francisco. In this he was unsuccessful and he, too, became sick. He went to the hospital with pneumonia and came out to find that he and his first officer were the only ones of the ship's company left and that his vessel was apparently tied up forever.

The present status of the vessel is most uncertain. In the United States a mortgage hangs over her. Other heavy debts that increase day by day burden her. No shipper will take a chance to load her for the United States, as vessel and cargo would be attached the instant she touched the homeland. She is too large a vessel for interisland trade. If, however, Philippine registry could be obtained she could doubtless be used as a cargo carrier to the Far East, and in that manner make sufficient money to clear off the cloud of debt that hangs over her at the present time.

She cannot be purchased outright, for her successive owners have become involved in ill luck like hers, and it does not seem possible to give her a clear title, according to local shipping men. And until she is so cleared she cannot sail. Local firms are angling for her purchase, but it all seems in the dim future. And in the meantime two lonely men who have not received a cent of pay in months spend their time trying to keep their big vessel shipshape until such time as she may once more spread her snowy canvas in another effort to get back home.

The Monongahela is a four-masted bark of 2,646 net tons, built in Glasgow in 1892. She sailed under a British charter for many years and was then sold to German owners. When the United States entered the war the vessel was lying at Portland, Ore., and was taken over by the shipping board. Under their direction she made two voyages to Honolulu and return with an American crew before she started on her last ill-fated trip.

PET SNAKES GUARD GEMS

Paris Sisters Trying to Rob Their Host Are Brought to Grief.

There was a serpent in the case when three sisters, Angeline, Marie and Francoise were invited by a young Algerian to dine with him in a private room at Montparnasse.

The three sisters, frequenters of Paris night resorts, plied their generous host so liberally with champagne that he fell asleep. They then relieved him of his money, watch and jewelry.

This done, one of the sisters noticed that the Algerian had brought home with him a large wickerbasket, which was standing in the corner of the room. She opened it and a large snake poked its head out. A moment later two more snakes came out and began hissing.

The girls ran screaming from the room and the Algerian woke up in time to find his strange pets investigating the fruit dishes on the table. The police were promptly summoned and the three sisters are now in prison.

FIND MASTODON TUSKS

Scientists Think Kansas County Was Once Stamping Ground.

"Was Pratt county, Kan., at one time the grazing ground for mastodons?"

Such is the question the citizens of the county are asking themselves. A fragment of a tusk 10 inches in diameter was found a few days ago while digging a ditch, and Prof. Rufus Gray of the Pratt high school believes it is from a giant mastodon, a skeleton of which was found 30 years ago in the same neighborhood.

The ribs of this skeleton were 11 feet across, indicating a height of 25 feet or more. This skeleton, according to old-time citizens, was found in nearly the same spot as the tusk was found.

Cow Fell Into Cave.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of the family cow of E. D. Nelson, at Reamsville, Kan., one Sunday was solved when she was found contentedly occupying a deep cave near her owner's home. She had undertaken to cross the roof of the cave and fell through. She was unhurt, but Nelson will have to lay in a new supply of potatoes, a bushel of onions and salt brine for the meat to replace what "bossy" ate.

Replaced Eyeball.

Many Fish Smothered.

Thousands of fish, it has been discovered, were killed in the lakes of the Volga district in South Dakota during the winter by smothering. The bodies of thousands of perch, pickerel, bullheads, buffalo and suckers have lined the shores of the lakes this spring, and hundreds of crows have been feasting on the bodies and picking the bones clean.

LADY ASTOR FIGURES IN MOST ROMANTIC CRIMINAL EPISODE

Through Her Influence "Charley" Smith, Who Shot Noted Bank Robber, Eddie Guerin, Is Set Free in England—Guerin, World Famous for His Escape From Devil's Island, Now Broken Man.

New York.—Fate, in her time, has tossed up many a queer and unexpected combination on her dizzily spinning wheel of chance; but seldom so odd a one as that of today, when Lady Astor, the winsome, the brilliant, the idol of two continents, looked down from the heights of her fame to do a good turn for a fellow Virginian—a man who had been the companion of criminals and jailbirds and who went to prison himself because he shot Eddie Guerin, the most famous international criminal of the last forty years.

The woman known as "Chicago May," to whom no depths of wickedness were unknown, dragged this man down with her; and now Lady Astor lifts him up.

When the great Majestic tied up at the dock in New York recently among her passengers was the man known as "Charley Smith"—a man who has been in an English prison for the last fifteen years, and who would have been there another ten long years if it had not been for Fate and her younger sister, Nancy, Lady Astor.

Once "Charley Smith," facing a judge, said that his real name was "Mr. Nobody, from Nowhere." The years haven't added much to that identification, nor to what is known about that arch-criminal, the man whose path "Charley Smith" lucklessly crossed—Eddie Guerin. The underworld knows all their secrets, and the underworld doesn't tell.

Let's begin with what is known about Eddie Guerin. Nobody knows in what obscure hole he is lurking today. The chances are that he is a miserable, grayhaired derelict, thieving and begging on the streets of London. But there was a time when he posed as an American millionaire, and when the police of London, Paris and New York held him in awe.

Guerin a Gang Leader.

Eddie Guerin was born in a poor quarter of Chicago, some sixty years ago, in a day when Chicago was notorious as a sink hole of vice and a breeding place of crooks. By the time he was twenty, in 1880, he and his brother Paddy were leaders of a gang of young toughs. Their first big "job" was to walk calmly away one day with nearly $10,000 in cash from the counter of a bank in Galesburg, Ill. Eddie might have stayed on in Chicago, but, only a few days after the bank robbery, he shot Thomas Treharn, a policeman, in the back room of a Chicago saloon, and fled from his old haunts.

On his way East, a bank in Allegheny, Pa., was robbed daringly, and Eddie Guerin was "wanted" for the crime. But he reached New York and managed to keep out of harm's way, though he became known to the New York police.

With the money from an occasional bank robbery or burglary of jewels, Eddie hung about uptown gambling houses and spent it freely in the dives of the Tenderloin. He was a husky, handsome young fellow—if you didn't study his eyes too closely—and he liked "the women." One of them in particular he liked—"Chicago May" Churchill. He was to change his opinion of her later.

May was easy to look at, if contemporary reports are to be believed. Her blue eyes could seem very alluring to well-to-do men who didn't know her record. Afterward, when they had accepted an invitation to her flat, and, once there, found Eddie Guerin suddenly demanding a fat bankroll from them as the price of silence, they found May's blue eyes as cold as the steel of Eddie's revolver.

Paris Attracts Them.

New York cramped the two after a while and, in the 90's they decided to take a look at Paris.

There was a robbery of 250,000 francs from that famous Parisian bank, the Credit Lyonnais, in 1891. Eddie was suspected of having had a hand in that. But nothing happened to him for a good ten years.

Then, in the warm spring days of 1901, when all Paris and its guests was basking at the little tables of the boulevards, the distinguished Americans planned a more spectacular and richer haul. Around the corner from the Cafe de la Paix, the busiest and most famous corner in all Paris, and in the very shadow of the great opera house, were the offices of the American Express company.

With them now were Kid McManus, a young Eastsider who had ascended from the prosperous state of a New York saloonkeeper to the companionship of Eddie Guerin, and Dutch Gus Miller, a notorious German-American criminal.

Their booty from the express robbery consisted of only 30,000 francs, then worth about $6,000. They had overlooked or had been unable to break the larger safes.

The four accomplices left Paris on different days. Kid McManus went first and reached London, but was later arrested for another crime and spent seven years in a Canadian penitentiary, emerging a mental wreck. Dutch Gus Miller and Chicago May were arrested as they left on different trains. And on June 18—"thirteen" was again to figure as an unlucky number for him—Eddie Guerin was arrested just as he reached the French border and brought back to Paris.

Chicago May was sentenced to five years of penal servitude. Dutch Gus and Eddie Guerin were each sentenced to imprisonment "at hard labor" for life.

As the sentence was pronounced Chicago May threw her arms about Eddie Guerin and kissed him long and passionately. Eddie was affected. But he learned later that it was she who, in order to gain a lighter sentence for herself, had given the information which led to his arrest.

Guerin and Dutch Gus were shipped to that penitentiary which is the horror of French criminals—Devil's Island, that ghastly strip of land off the coast of South America in French Guiana, where a tropic sun beats down mercilessly on steaming clay and pestilential swamp.

But then came the most sensational episode in all Guerin's sensational career. From "Devil's Island," the hopeless saying is, "no man ever escapes."

But Guerin escaped!

The true story of the way in which he effected it has never been told. In all probability it never will be. The generally accepted version is that Pat Sheedy, New York's famous gambler and "patron of art," who had conceived a real liking for Guerin, gave or collected a fund of some $50,000 which was sent secretly to Guerin on Devil's Island, and used to bribe his guards.

Guerin reached New York in the early summer of 1905, just four years after the court in Paris had sentenced him to imprisonment for life. He was seen at his old resorts. In the autumn he revisited his boyhood haunts in Chicago—and then he dropped out of sight.

Charley Smith Appears.

Two years went by before the police found him troublesome again. By this time, Chicago May had completed her five-year term in a French prison and had gone back to London, where she had rented a flat in Gower street, in the sedate Bloomsbury neighborhood, and was back at her old game, it was said, of blackmailing wealthy admirers. But now it was no longer Eddie Guerin who acted as her male accomplice in the business. It was a slender, curly-headed young American, who sometimes gave the name of Sabine Jackson and sometimes that of Charley Smith.

Eddie Guerin suddenly reappeared in London. With him was a woman known as Emily Skinner, who passed as his wife, at times.

Guerin had been in London for at least six months before their old quarrel broke out violently. This was on June 15, 1907. Guerin and the Skinner woman were walking along Oxford street, when Chicago May and "Charley Smith" dashed up alongside them in a taxicab. It may be that May was jealous of the woman who had supplanted her. It may be that she had resolved to "get" Guerin before he could revenge himself on her. She and her companion jumped from the cab and a bitter quarrel at once began among the four.

Suddenly young Smith drew a revolver and fired. Guerin sank to the pavement, as Smith and Chicago May hurried away. Afterward it was found that he had been wounded merely in the foot. He was dismissed from the hospital in a week. But for all that, British justice was no less plain in the case of Smith than the French verdict had been in Guerin's case. Smith was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment.

A Broken Old Man.

In the 15 years that have passed since then, Guerin, still living in London, has been arrested again and again, on suspicion of complicity in burglaries, but has managed to escape lightly each time.

Two years ago the chaplain of the prison where Smith was serving out his term paid a call to John Savage, the American consul at Southampton, and told him that Smith had behaved himself admirably under prison discipline and that all the officials believed he deserved a commutation of his sentence. More than that, said the chaplain, Smith had jumped in when one of the keepers was attacked by a convict and had saved the keeper's life.

The consul interested himself in the American's case, but without result, for a year or more. Then he learned that Smith was a Virginian born.

The consul suddenly bethought himself that Lady Astor was born in Virginia! Nancy C. Langhorne she was, before she married Viscount Astor, campaigned until she was elected a member—first woman member—of the British parliament. "And she hasn't forgotten Virginia," he said to himself, "and she will help out this poor chap if any one can!"

And he was dead right. Even though Lady Astor had never heard of Smith before that moment, her sympathies were aroused immediately. She investigated the case personally, and was satisfied that Smith deserved a fresh start in life. She pulled wires as none but she can pull them. And he is free!

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XXXI.—CALIFORNIA

THERE is an atmosphere of romance enveloping the early history of California which even encircles the origin of the name. About 1520 a Spanish love story was published in which there was an imaginary island in the Far East called California. Some fifteen years later a party of Spanish adventurers came upon the peninsula which we now call Lower California. Believing that they had discovered a romantic island similar to the one in the novel, they called it California. Later on, the territory to the north became known as Alta California or High California and when it became a state, it was accordingly called California. The first settlers were the Franciscan monks who came up from Mexico and established missions, and many are the legends woven around these pioneer Padres. There shortly grew up Mexican settlements around the missions which the wonderful climate and fertile soil prospered.

The government, while under Mexican control, was more or less independent, and at the outbreak of the Mexican war, Fremont, who was later defeated for the presidency, occupied California. When peace was made in 1848, California became United States territory. That same year gold was discovered in the Sacramento Valley and the rush of people to California began. The population grew so rapidly that in 1850 California was admitted as the thirty-first state of the Union. With its 158,297 square miles, it is the largest state except Texas. Politically, its power has been rapidly growing. California now has thirteen presidential electors.

CANADA GIVES UP HER NAVY

Ships Donated by British Too Expensive to Keep, Is Statement of Government.

Ottawa, Ont.—In the matter of naval defense, Canada has decided to live up to the letter of the demand for disarmament, the government having announced in parliament that the navy, consisting of several vessels given by the British government, would pass out of existence. All that Canada will do is to protect the wharves and harbors at Halifax and Esquimalt, and train about 1,500 youths a year in naval service.

Whether the vessels donated by the British government will be given back remains to be seen. Certainly they will be of no service to Canada as long as the present policy continues, there being no money for their upkeep.

The policy announced comes as the result of an insistent demand for economy. The progressives, who correspond to the agricultural bloc in the American congress, are clamorous for reduction in expenditure and have had their way both in respect to military and naval expenditure.

The policy of the government has the overwhelming support of the house of commons.

WOMEN ATTACK DRUG CLERK

"Doping" of Children in Constantinople Arouses Americans to Drastic Action.

Constantinople.—American residents here are aroused by discovery that scores of refugee children are being kept in "doped" condition by women who make a living day-nursing them while their mothers work for bread.

Nearly 1,000 of the children have been found in hovels and cellars after having been given a native narcotic solution to keep them quiet. Sleeping potions are sold by street criers and the women had resorted to the plan of stupefying the children so that their own work would be uninterrupted.

Led by Mrs. R. S. Emrich of Framingham, Mass., an American Near East official, five American women have formed a committee to stop the condition of affairs. Mrs. Bie Ravndal of Filmore county, Minn., wife of the American consul general, is chairman.

Mrs. Emrich found children sitting stupidly on water-soaked dirt floors in danger of developing tuberculosis as well as suffering from drug effects.

SHAWSHEEN LAUNDRY

Shawsheen Laundry

Figured in terms of health and time—as well as money—does it pay you to launder at home?

Can't you put your time to more profitable use than to spend it over the wash tub?

And don't occasional doctor's bills occasioned by too much housework, more than offset the slight cost of letting us launder?

Shawsheen Girls' Club

The regular meeting of the Shawsheen Girls' club was held at the home of Miss Gertrude McKay, 2 Dumbarton street. Plans were discussed for a week-end party to be held at Hampton Beach, June 24-25.

Several of the members entertained with piano and vocal selections and a most enjoyable evening was passed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Agnes Mura, Haverhill street, when plans for the week-end party will be completed. This will be the last meeting until October.

JURIES ARE ELIMINATED IN SOVIET CRIMINAL CODE

Verdicts Are Found by the Judge and Two Trades Union Assistants.

Soviet Russia's new criminal code provides for assistants to the judges as a substitute for jury trials.

"There are no jury trials," said Nicolai V. Krylenko, chairman of the supreme revolutionary tribunal, or the attorney general of Russia. "The people's courts consist of one judge, appointed by the executive committee of the local soviet. Instead of jurors he has two assistants, chosen from a list of trades union men provided by the unions. These are chosen separately for each trial. In more complicated cases six of these assistants are named for the judge."

The people's courts correspond roughly to the police and lower civil courts in the United States. Above them are the revolutionary tribunals.

"In the revolutionary tribunals," said Krylenko, "there are only three judges, all appointed by the soviets and without any assistants from the trades unions."

The state police, which has succeeded the Cheka, has power to hold persons for investigation not longer than two months, but cannot inflict any punishment whatsoever.

Prisoners may have counsel appointed by the court, or may select their own attorneys from the "corporation of lawyers," an association to be formed. To this organization only qualified barristers will be admitted, and the government will have some control over it. There is also a court of appeals, in Moscow, which may review any sentence.

State prosecutors are to be permanently appointed, acting similarly to the state's attorneys in the United States.

WORLD'S LARGEST FAMILY HOLDS REUNION IN WEST

Claiming to be the world's largest family, Mrs. Mary Harnett and her 164 descendants recently staged a family reunion at Newhall, Cal. In addition to Mrs. Harnett, who is eighty-nine years old, there were present her nine children, 40 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. Such a family picnic has probably never been staged elsewhere, so far as its numerical makeup is concerned. Mrs. Harnett is shown in the picture.

Owl Causes Trouble.

The old granary burying ground owl, or his namesake, has returned to Beacon Hill, Boston, and is causing more trouble. The other night he took up his post in a tree outside the residence of Mrs. Arthur Shurtleff. When Mrs. Shurtleff, attracted by his hooting, looked out the window she spied two figures in the dark making their way up the fire escape. A few moments later in walked her two older boys, covered with dirt and dust. They explained to their frightened mother that they had been up on the roof by the fire escape to watch the owl.

Moved His Family Often.

George W. Conrad, who lives near Corydon, Ind., is contemplating moving to another place, and if he does this will make the forty-eighth time he has moved his family. Conrad was born in this country. He is a farmer and is seventy-eight years old. His wife is seventy-six. They have been married 56 years.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Civic Association Announces Plans for Handicap Play for Men and Women to Be Held last of June

The Shawsheen Village Civic association has planned a handicap tennis tournament for residents of the Village, to be held on the Balmoral courts commencing June 19th.

This tournmsent is not meant to take the place of the regular fall cup tournament but is really a preliminary one to decide the handicap rating for village players. The tournament is open to men and women and already a great deal of interest is being shown, many entries having been made at the Balmoral Spa. The courts are in fine condition and are among the best in the vicinity. The women especially are urged to enter the tournament. Last year they were out of it as there were not enough signed up. There are some good players among the women of the village and it is hoped they will enter their names for this tournament.

The committee meets on Friday evening, June 16, in Post-Office hall to assign the handicaps and make the drawings.

The following has been issued by the committee in connection with the tournament:

A handicap tennis tournament for residents of Shawsheen Village will be held on the village courts commencing June 19th.

Entries close June 15th.

This tournament is not intended to interfere with or to take the place of the regular fall tournament when the Shawsheen Cup is contested for, but is rather a preliminary affair to determine the proper handicap rating for village players.

Men's singles and doubles and ladies' singles will be played and mixed doubles if there are sufficient entries.

Entrance fee—50 cents per person for singles and $1.00 per team for doubles to be paid to Henry Simmers, manager of the Balmoral Spa, before commencement of first match.

Under the regulations of the Balmoral Spa, courts cannot be assigned by the committee for these matches but must be reserved and paid for in the regular way, except for the semi-finals and finals when courts will be reserved by the committee.

Since in our previous tournament, the committee was seriously handicapped by players failing to play off their matches the following regulations have been adopted to insure the tournament being run off without unnecessary delay.

All matches in the first round must be played by June 30th.

All matches up to the semi-finals must be played by July 12th.

Players failing to comply with the above will be defaulted.

Finals will be played July 15th.

Entries to be made on the list posted at Balmoral Spa.

Handicaps will be assigned and the drawings made by the following committee: F. H. Hardy, chairman, H. O. Frye, J. R. Mosher, Paul Rice, Sydney Paine, Henry Simmers.

NO FLAPPER RIGHTS FOR BOYS

High School Lads in Ohio Town Lose Strike to Wear Shirts Decollete.

Washington Courthouse, O.—Twenty-five high school boys here have lost their strike for flapper rights. Principal Thompson was adamant in his stand to keep them from school unless they discarded their demands for equality in dress styles with the girls, that is, no collars or neckties, shirts decollete and shirt sleeves rolled up.

The boys insisted they had the right to wear their clothes just as comfortably as the girls, now that the warm weather had arrived. Mr. Thompson told them they all could stay home until they decided to revamp their ideas. They returned to school after a one-day strike, promising to live up to the principal's idea of how a gentleman should dress.

WRITER ON JOB AT 101

M. Maille Saint Prix Does Long Article for Newspaper Every Week.

Paris.—M. Maille Saint-Prix, the oldest working journalist in France and probably in the world, one hundred and one years old, contributes an article of a column to a column and a half every week to a French provincial newspaper.

M. Maille Saint-Prix told a correspondent who called on him at his chateau, about an hour's journey from Paris, that his great regret is that he can no longer go shooting, which he had to abandon at the early age of ninety.

Man, 91, Uses Auto to Avoid Taking First Train Ride

Lexington, Ky.—Many years ago, when steam railroads were in an experimental stage in southern Kentucky, James L. Johnson of Allen Springs, Simpson county, who is ninety-one years old, made a solemn vow that he would never ride on a train.

Johnson was tempted recently to break his vow, but the automobile came to his aid and enabled him to keep faith with himself. He has always been averse to leaving home, but a few days ago yielded to the insistence of his grandson, Claude Meredith, who holds a position with the fish and game bureau at Frankfort, the state's capital. Although the distance is more than 100 miles, the eccentric nonagenarian made the long trip overland in an automobile rather than break his vow.

Johnson is as erect as a soldier and his faculties are unimpaired.

PERSONALS

David Young of the Shawsheen market spent Sunday at Hampton Beach, N. H.

Arthur George of the Shawsheen Manor spent the week-end at his home in Westwood, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Law of Canterbury street and daughter, Alma, motored to Manchester, Sunday.

George Murray, formerly employed at the Shawsheen market is now employed at the Shawsheen garage.

Mrs. Ada Mason of Haverhill street has resumed her duties in the Shawsheen mill after a short visit with relatives in Hyde Park.

Mrs. P. H. Jones and daughter, Dorothy, of New Bedford are spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Law of Canterbury street.

Howard Dunnells spent the week-end at his home on Sutherland street. He is receiving treatment in the Parker Hill hospital, Boston.

The office of the Shawsheen market has been moved from the middle of the store to the east side. In the center where the office was formerly located are tables nicely arranged with potted flowers.

The latest attraction in the Village is boating, and already many have enjoyed this sport. There are three boats for use, the Shawsheen, the Sagamore, and the Algonquin. The boats are rented through the Balmoral Spa.

The girls employed as clerks at the Balmoral Spa are now wearing a neat looking black uniform consisting of a black satin one-piece dress with linen collar and cuffs and a small white organdie apron. The uniform is very neat and attractive. The men wear a white frock with Balmoral Spa embroidered on the collar.

A nine hole putting course has been laid out in the enclosure of the bowling green and clock golf arranged for on one of the links. The privilege of play is open to the public and reservations may be made through Henry Simmers, manager of the Balmoral Spa. The excellent turf of the bowling green provides perfect conditions for the games.

The baseball game that was to have taken place on last Saturday between the Shawsheen baseball team and the All Stars of Lawrence, had to be called off on account of the rain in the morning which rendered the grounds unplayable. Practice was held on Tuesday, but no practise on Thursday. The game between Shawsheen and the All Stars of Lawrence, will be played on Saturday at two o'clock. All players are requested to be on hand at that time.

A line of automobiles parked on Main street a quarter of a mile at either side of the Balmoral Spa building was proof of the popularity of the dance on the outdoor dancing space on Wednesday evening of this week. Parties from Haverhill, Lowell, Lawrence, Andover and Reading attended, and from 8 o'clock until 11.30 the floor was comfortably filled with dancers. Weather permitting, these dances will be held on Wednesday and Saturday evenings from 8.30 to 11.30.

The home of John Traynor that has for so many years stood on Haverhill street, is being moved to Carisbrooke street, one of the new streets on what was formerly the Town Farm property. The house as it stood on Haverhill street was much too near the new Shawsheen mill and the new location will be a much better one. Mr. and Mrs. Traynor are at present on a trip to Ireland and during the time that the house is being moved Miss Gertrude Traynor is residing at the Shawsheen Manor and Joseph Traynor is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mura of Haverhill street.

How our Grandparents Talked

An elderly contributor favors us with a list of odd words and expressions current a generation or so ago. We have room for only a few of them.

"Sniptious," meaning smart, perky, was used in New York.

"I bonas it," meaning I claim it, was an expression in general use, and might be a variation of "I bone it."

"Manavelins" was said to be exclusively used in Long Island and meant toothsome bits of any dish at table.

"Gawmed up." Of a child eating bread and molasses a Southern nurse would say, "His face is all gawmed up." A variant "gaumed," was also used in England.

"Scamuljugated" referred to two young people being fond of each other.

"John and Jane seem quite scramuljugated."—Boston Transcript.

LOCAL BOWLERS WIN

Williams and Babb Overcome Odds and Defeat Scottish Stars 14 to 9 on Shawsheen Green, Sunday

The bowling game that was postponed on Saturday, took place on Sunday afternoon on the Shawsheen green.

The contesting sides were R. Williams and B. Babb, who were opposed by two crack bowlers from Glasgow, Scotland, named T. Parry and J. Fyfe. The game was keen and exciting and the members of the Shawsheen Bowling club were successful, the score standing 14 to 9 in favor of Babb and Williams.

This game had all the aspects of an international tournament and great interest was manifested by the large turnout of spectators who were on hand at the commencement of the game.

Many were of the opinion that the local men would fare badly at the hands of the Scottish visitors who were looked upon as a pair of adepts at the game. But to the astonishment of everyone Babb and Williams bowled a superb game.

The game was in progress about fifteen minutes when Fyfe received great applause for a magnificent shot. Williams had played his bowls before the latter and his shots were very close to the duck. But Fyfe, using great judgment and surveying the position in a twinkling of an eye, bowled his shot with cool precision with the result that he beat Williams by about a quarter of an inch.

With excitement at a high tension, Williams made very pretty play giving the local men the lead, Williams leading Fyfe in the last six shots.

The Glasgow men with defeat staring them in the face, made a desperate effort to recover their lost prestige, Fyfe steadying himself almost as though he were playing billards. However, the local men maintained their lead and despite the efforts of Parry and Fyfe, the Glagow bowlers had to acknowledge defeat.

The game lasted fully one hour and fifty minutes and the win of the Shawsheen men should go a long way to make the sport more interesting.

The summary:

	Points
B. Babb and R. Williams	14
T. Parry and J. Fyfe	9

Injury to Hand

Miss Selina Debuc employed in the drawing room of the Shawsheen mills received an injury to her hand while at her work last Friday afternoon. The accident occurred when Miss Debuc was taking waste from a roller and caught her hand. She received treatment at the mill hospital from the mill nurse, Miss McCavitt, and was later removed to the Lawrence General Hospital.

Miss Debuc is resting comfortable at her home at the present time.

Liliputian Village Built by Kindergarteners

The Shawsheen Village kindergarten has closed for the summer months after a most successful season. The closing took place on last Friday morning with a party, many of the parents and friends of the little children being present. Miss Dame and Miss Hanscom carried on the morning session as usual and songs were sung and games played by the children in a most charming manner.

There was a display of the children's work which has been accomplished during the year. A feature of this display was the miniature Shawsheen Village built of blocks by the children. There was the mill with its tall chimney and several of the other buildings and many houses. The visitors were very much pleased with it and commended the little ones for the work.

The kindergarten will open in October when a first grade will be added to the classes.

Youngsters Enjoy Bathing in Hussey's Pond

The hot weather of the past few weeks is not a source of worry to the youngsters of Shawsheen. They simply don their bathing suits and turn their footsteps in the direction of Hussey's pond. Some even carry their suits to school and in the bath houses constructed for the purpose quickly change, and in shorter time than it takes to tell it are splashing and diving in the cool and refreshing water.

There are many good swimmers among the children and the pond is an ideal place for them to swim and bathe. Bath houses have been built for the accommodation of the little folks and cement steps enable them to climb out of the water and also afford a diving place.

Bowling Green Club to Hold Tournament on the Fourth

The Bowling Green club met on Tuesday evening in Post Office hall with Chairman Robert Williams presiding.

A letter was received from George M. Wallace, advisor of the athletic committee in which he expressed regret at not being able to attend the meeting and said that he wished the Shawsheen Bowling Green club to be one of the best, if not the best, in the State of Massachusetts, and the green to be the best kept green.

A committee consisting of president, Robert Williams; vice president, Matthew Burns; secretary, Dana Clark; and treasurer, William Gordon, were appointed to buy the cup that will be presented to the winner of the tournament. The cup was donated by vice president, Matthew Burns. The bowling tournament is to be held on July 4, and there will be a match with the Boston Bowling Green club at Shawsheen on July 1.

At this meeting it was voted to tax every member fifteen cents a week to defray the expense attached to the upkeep of the green.
